

End To Wounded Knee Siege OKd

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — An agreement for disarmament and further negotiations to end the 68-day occupation of historic Wounded Knee by militant Indians was announced Sunday.

The further discussions are to involve representatives of the White House who will come to the Pine Ridge Reservation.

Deputy Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Richard Hellstern and American Indian Movement (AIM) attorney Ramon Roubideaux jointly announced the agreement and said it is to be effective Wednesday, beginning at 9 a.m. EDT. At that time the government will remove all armored personnel carriers, while occupants of Wounded Knee are to lay down their weapons, ammunition and explosives.

The agreement calls for the Indians to evacuate their bunkers and assemble at their tepee chapel in the village to surrender their arms to personnel of the Community Relations Service (CRS) of the Justice Department.

The weapons will be processed by government officials, and legal weapons will be returned to their owners within 24 hours, Hellstern and Roubideaux said.

CRS personnel will then divide Wounded Knee occupants into three groups — those with outstanding arrest warrants will be taken to nearby Rapid City for legal proceedings, permanent residents will be allowed to return to their homes; and all other occupants will arrange for transportation from the reservation.

The agreement was signed by 11 Oglala Sioux tribal elders and by Hellstern, Interior Department Solicitor Kent Frizzell and director of U.S. Marshal Service Wayne Colburn.

Roubideaux said Dennis Banks and Carter Camp, AIM leaders at Wounded Knee since the start of the occupation Feb. 27, did not sign the agreement.

The attorney made public a letter from Banks saying: "I have reviewed the agreement, and find that the document falls outside the protection of the U.S. Constitution. I will submit to the arms laydown because the chiefs and headmen have agreed.

"Also, AIM's job is done here. It must be understood AIM was called on to aid these Oglalas in their struggle against repressive government forces."

Frizzell said the disarmament would clear the way for a meeting between White House representatives and Sioux elders on the Pine Ridge Reservation "to discuss and explore the 1868 treaty."

The 1868 treaty, which gave all land west of the Missouri River to the Oglala Sioux, has been stressed by Indians protesting conditions on the reservation.

Frizzell said the White House representatives would be named shortly, and the meeting probably will be May 17.

Hellstern also announced the government would permit the mother of a slain member of the occupation force and about 35 close relatives to bury Lawrence Lamont at Wounded Knee. The 31-year-old Pine Ridge resident was one of two members of occupation force who died as a result of gunfire between the Indians and government personnel.

Pay At UNL Ranked Low

... In National Survey

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Levels of compensation for University of Nebraska-Lincoln faculty members fall in the lowest 20% of the pay scales at similar institutions nationwide, according to a 1972-73 academic year survey by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

At the same time, the AAUP study shows, UNL professorial pay continues to hold its place at about mid-point in the Big 8.

The 1972-73 survey compares salaries and benefits by rank and type of institution at more than 1,500 colleges and universities across the land. The figures cited indicate the total compensation for nine-month periods.

The AAUP's rating scales by rank for university-level institutions shows that UNL compensation ranks below the 20th percentile in all ranks but assistant professor.

The AAUP assigned rates to each of the rating scales, with the top ranked No. 1 and the bottom ranked No. 5. In most instances, UNL faculty members compensation would rank in category No. 5.

Here is a table showing the AAUP's ranks No. 1 and No. 4 and the UNL nine-month compensation levels by faculty status.

Status	AAUP No. 1	AAUP No. 4	UNL
Professor	$28,080	$20,410	$19,800
Assoc. Prof.	$20,710	$16,100	$15,400
Asst. Prof.	$16,000	$13,470	$13,600
Instructor	$12,760	$10,770	$10,100

The ratings show that UNL compensation ranks below the 20th percentile cut-off level, except at the assistant professor rank. At the instructor rank, the two compensation figures are about the same.

But, when compared with the highest-paid professors in similar institutions, the UNL compensation levels are far less in every category.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha, which is compared in the AAUP ratings with different institutions, ranks in the 40th percentile in most comparisons.

That means that about 60% of the similar institutions nationwide have higher levels of faculty compensation.

In the Big 8, both UNO and UNL rank at about the midpoint of compensation levels, the AAUP survey shows.

UNL ranks fifth in professor pay, fourth in associate professor pay and third in pay for assistant professors and instructors.

UNO, on the other hand, ranks sixth in professor pay, last in associate professor pay, fifth in assistant professor pay and third in instructor pay.

Here is a table showing pay scales at Big 8 schools, with UNL and UNO listed separately.

School	Professor	Assoc. Prof.	Asst. Prof.	Instructor

County Doesn't Follow Nation In Divorces

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Although Lancaster County is keeping pace with national figures of one out of three marriages ending in divorce, the number of long-term marriages in the county and state which are now ending in divorce is considerably lower than national figures.

According to the Associated Press, more than 25% of all divorces in the United States filed today involve marriages of more than 15 years and about 16% of those involved couples who have been married 25 years or more.

However, a study of divorces filed in Lancaster County shows that between 15 and 18% in the last twelve years have involved couples who have been married 15 years or more while only about 5% of them involved marriages of 25 years or more.

The first three months of 1973 found 15% involving couples married 15 years or more — the same as the figure for 1960 — while 1970 jumped to 18% and 1972 17%.

However, divorces among those married 25 years or more has remained at 5% for 1970, 1972 and the first three months of 1973, but almost doubled the 2.7% figure in 1960.

At the state level, according to information from the Bureau of Vital Statistics, the divorce rate is slightly higher for marriages of 15 years' duration with 20% ending in divorce in 1960 as compared with 22% for 1970.

However, after the 25-year mark, marriages

Buses Run 1,248,039 Miles In Year

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

In the year since they've been in operation, the city's 33 new buses have racked up nearly one and a quarter million miles.

The fleet of new carriers have averaged 37,910 miles per bus, Jerald Rae, Lincoln Transportation System (LTS), general manager reported.

Rae said the buses have traveled a total of 1,248,039 miles in their first year of service.

In posting all those miles LTS has picked up additional riders.

Finance Director James Mallon reported that regular passenger revenue is up 46% in March of this year, compared to March a year ago with the old buses. Figures comparing operating revenue and expenses for the month of April are not yet available.

For the seven-month period from Sept. 1, 1972, to March 31, 1973, compared to the same seven-month period the year before — regular passenger revenues are up 26%.

Mallon also noted that total operating revenues have jumped in that seven-month period — from $277,846 last year to $403,766 this year.

However, he pointed out that the year's revenue figures also include income from the handi-van and several other services which are new this year.

Although revenues have increased, Mallon said that operating expenses also have climbed. From Sept. 1, 1971, through March 31, 1972, compared to the same period this fiscal year — operating expenses are up $96,785, from $415,023 to $511,808.

However, the net loss, after depreciation, has dropped $37,974 during that seven-month period, from $229,012 to $191,038.

Mallon commented it would be unrealistic to think that publicly owned transportation systems will ever reach the break-even point.

In July, 1971, the city took over ownership of the privately owned Lincoln City Lines, Inc.

The equipment was in need of repair and the decision was made to purchase a new fleet of carriers.

The new 45-passenger buses, equipped with air-conditioning and anti-pollution devices, started arriving in late April of last year and started on the routes last May.

The blue, green and silver vehicles replaced the old "vintage" buses which were notorious for their break-downs and spewing fumes.

Although several of those buses were retained for charter service — and one is now a regular on the minibus line — the remaining 22 were parked out at Lincoln Air Park West and put up for sale.

It took just about a year to get rid of them.

Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey reported that the last buses were sold this spring.

The total sale price "didn't amount to too much," Harvey said.

The buses brought in $4,527

The buses — all sold to people inside Nebraska — are being put to some rather uncommon uses.

Several old bus motors are being used in irrigation pumps, while others are being used by another rancher for storage sheds.

Still others are seeing use as shuttle vehicles for Nebraska football fans — and one has even been converted into a camper.

ICCS Helicopter Is Fired At; South Viet Fighting Increases

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting across South Vietnam was reported Sunday to have soared to its highest level in three weeks, and an international peacekeeping helicopter was fired on over a "contested" area in the Mekong Delta, commission sources said.

It was the third time in a little more than a month that helicopters of the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision have been fired on. The first incident, April 7, caused nine deaths, but the latter two have resulted in no injuries and no damage.

The latest incident is certain to stir new protests in the commission, particularly from Canada, which may decide to pull out of the peacekeeping force at the end of this month. The commission has curtailed its flights to essential missions, restricting its movements and thus making it ineffective as an observation force.

The latest helicopter carried four Poles, a Canadian, an American contract employee and an American crew. Commission sources said. They reported that it drew a "couple of bursts" of small arms fire while flying from Tri Ton, near the Cambodian border, to Vi Thanh, 110 miles southwest of Saigon.

At the same time, the Saigon command claimed that Communist-led troops fired small arms and a Soviet-built, hand-fired, Strela heat-seeking missile at three government helicopters in another contested area of the Mekong Delta, about 50 miles southwest of Saigon. Two of the helicopters were

Mexico Fulfills Kidnap Bargain

... But New Demands Made

Guadalajara, Mexico (AP) — Mexico fulfilled its bargain with guerrilla kidnapers Sunday by flying 30 freed prisoners safely to Cuba. But later, officials said the guerrillas had issued more demands to be met before they would release the prisoners' safe arrival on a nationwide radio and television hookup at 4 p.m. — 6 p.m. EDT. The kidnapers pledged they would free Leonhardy after such a broadcast.

The situation has become extremely complicated. There are new demands," said Alberto Orozco Romero, governor of Jalisco state. He did not specify the demands.

A short time before, Orozco Romero had received a note — apparently from Leonhardy — saying the diplomat was in good health and unharmed.

Another message, by telephone, was received by Mrs. Leonhardy — moments after a Cuban Embassy official announced on television that the freed prisoners had arrived safely in Havana.

The kidnapers had promised to release Leonhardy after the television announcement was made, Orozco Romero said. Mrs. Leonhardy quoted the telephone caller as saying: "You will await instructions at this telephone. We will give you these instructions later."

That was the first time the diplomat's wife had heard anything directly from the kidnapers since her husband was abducted Friday afternoon.

The caller gave no word where Leonhardy was or where he would be released.

A Mexican air force plane flew the 30 guerrillas and terrorists released from seven widespread jails to Havana Sunday morning as the kidnapers had demanded.

Jorge Reyes Vega, first secretary of the Cuban Embassy, met the final demand by announcing the prisoners' safe arrival on a nationwide radio and television hookup at 4 p.m. — 6 p.m. EDT. The kidnapers pledged they would free Leonhardy after such a broadcast.

Leonhardy, 58, was seized near his suburban home by a revolutionary guerrilla group calling itself the Armed Revolutionary Forces of the People.

The 30 prisoners freed were accused of bombings, bank robberies, shootings and subversion.

Most of them wore street clothes and carried small cardboard boxes of belongings. All were pale and drawn after months in jail. Some had been imprisoned since 1971 without being sentenced. They were not allowed to talk with newsmen.

President Luis Echeverria said at the outset that the government would comply with all the demands of the kidnapers. One of those demands was for nationwide publicity for all the communiques issued by the abductors.

In its fourth statement, Saturday night, the kidnapers said the government had put Leonhardy's life in danger because not all the newspapers in Mexico City published the communiques on page one.

Reports reaching Saigon said the North Vietnamese had rebuilt the A Shau valley into a major supply base as a threat to Hue, 25 miles to the northeast.

lightly damaged and there were no casualties, the Saigon command said. The helicopters were on liaison and resupply missions, a communique reported.

The Saigon command said the thrust of the increased action again was aimed at the western defense line of the old imperial capital of Hue.

Despite the intensification, no major battles were reported and the fighting remained on a small scale, although government positions on Hue's western defense line took about 600 rounds of mortar fire.

At the same time, there were reliable reports that North Viet-

Talks Continue With Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Leonid I. Brezhnev continued talks Sunday at a country hideaway and were believed to be arranging a summit conference next month in the United States.

For the first time since the presidential troubleshooter arrived in Moscow on Friday, the U.S. embassy disclosed he visited in the paper's weekly international review. As international observers point out, the arrival in Moscow of U.S. presidential assistant H. Kissinger provides an opportunity for a detailed and businesslike discussion of perspectives of Soviet-American cooperation.

A visit to Washington by party chief Brezhnev expected sometime in June or July is believed to be one of the more pressing matters in the deepening Russian-American détente.

But Kissinger also was expected to discuss a wide range of topics including trade, arms limitations, troop reductions in Europe and Soviet policy on Jewish emigration.

American diplomats based in Moscow were not invited to accompany Kissinger to the walled and guarded government compound near the village of Zavidovo and the confluence of the Volga and Shosha Rivers.

An invitation to the Zavidovo retreat is the sort of gesture the Brezhnev leadership usually reserves for the rare foreign visitors in whom trust and a certain personal commitment have been invested.

Brezhnev, an avid hunter, has sometimes used Zavidovo to treat guests to hunting or fishing expeditions. But the embassy spokesman said he knew of no such recreation planned for Kissinger.

A brief sightseeing trip to Leningrad was still possible, the spokesman added, but it won't come off today, perhaps Monday or Tuesday.

Kissinger is expected to leave for London no later than Wednesday. He is reported scheduled for conferences near the end of the week with Prime Minister Edward Heath, Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Cabinet Secretary Burke Trend, and then fly home to report to President Nixon.

BRUCE ... prepares to leave.

Bruce To Open Peking Diplomatic Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran envoy David K. E. Bruce left for Peking Sunday to open the United States' first diplomatic post in the Republic of China since the Communists took over a generation ago.

In an airport interview he said he approached the job with great enthusiasm.

Bruce was escorted to the airline entrance by Chinese diplomat Han Hsu, who will be deputy chief of the liaison office scheduled to be opened here later this month.

From here, Bruce and his entourage were flying to Seattle and then to Hong Kong where they will spend five days before proceeding to Peking.

In answers to questions, Bruce said he didn't think the Watergate scandal enveloping President Nixon's top aides would hamper his goals of bringing the nations closer.

I wouldn't have thought so, I don't want to comment about Watergate, Bruce said. It has nothing to do with my mission.

He said he hopes to foster the friendship between the citizens of the Republic of China and the United States — which he noted had been interrupted by almost a generation.

Three limousines carried Chinese and U.S. diplomats to Washington National Airport for an informal farewell ceremony before Bruce's 8 a.m. departure.

Bruce conferred with Han in the airline's hospitality suite before walking out to talk with reporters and then heading for his plane.

Now 75, Bruce was called out of retirement by Nixon to accept the sensitive position of renewing diplomatic ties with China after a 23-year lapse.

The United States broke off relations with China after the Communists won control from Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalists in 1950.

Both the U.S. mission in Peking and the Chinese comparable post here will be short of embassy status and Bruce and his Chinese counterpart Huang Chen will not carry the titles of ambassadors.

At the airport, Bruce said he assumed that in the course of time the offices would be elevated to full embassy status.

As he reached the airline gate, Bruce turned to reporters and told them: I want to say one thing more. I'm looking forward to this mission with great enthusiasm, as are all the others.

Among those with him were his wife, Angelina, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Le Senne Jenkins, Jenkins is Bruce's Chinese-speaking top deputy who has opened a preliminary office in Peking, supervised construction plans for the liaison office and Bruce's home set up telephone and radio communications with Washington and hired Chinese chauffeurs for Bruce and his aides.

CIA Ordered To Assist In Break-In, Source Says

©The New York Times

Washington — Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., the Marine Corps commandant who in 1971 was deputy director of Central Intelligence, authorized the use of Central Intelligence Agency material and research in the burglary of the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's former psychiatrist, sources close to the Watergate case said Sunday.

The sources said that the general, who is a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, acted at the request of John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's chief adviser for domestic affairs, who resigned last week.

Cushman, who left the CIA in 1971, was questioned by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation last week, the sources said, and reportedly accepted full responsibility for the decision to permit the CIA to help E. Howard Hunt Jr., and G. Gordon Liddy prepare for the break-in.

The New York Times reported Sunday that federal prosecutors in the Watergate case had summoned some officials of the CIA to discuss that agency's role in the burglary. Cushman apparently was among the first to be questioned on the agency's activity.

The general could not be reached for comment. Marine Corps officials said that he was traveling to The Netherlands and would not return to Washington until later this week.

The prosecuting team, headed by Earl J. Silbert and Seymour Glazer, first learned of the burglary at the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding last month in an interview with John W. Dean, 3rd, who resigned as counsel to the President last week. In subsequent grand jury testimony last Wednesday, Hunt told of utilizing CIA disguises, fake identification papers, and even a "safe-house" in the Washington area that were provided by the agency's clandestine services, the so-called "dirty tricks" department.

Krogh Responsible?

Hunt, a 20-year CIA veteran who, along with Liddy and five others, was arrested last year in connection with the Watergate bugging, also told the grand jury that he believed that cooperation with the CIA had been arranged by one of his superiors, Egil Krogh Jr.

At the time, according to grand jury testimony, Krogh was directly in charge of a special White House team that had been set up in the aftermath of the June, 1971, publication of the Pentagon Papers to determine who was involved in the disclosure of the documents.

Krogh, at the time one of Ehrlichman's key deputies for domestic affairs, reportedly recruited both Liddy and Hunt over the next few weeks, and the two men immediately began planning the operation to get the psychiatrist's records.

Krogh, who has reportedly resigned his new job as undersecretary of transportation, sent a classified affidavit to the Ellsberg court Friday in which he reportedly accepted full responsibility for the burglary.

Two sources confirmed Sunday, however, that Krogh did not have the authority to deal directly with the Central Intelligence Agency on such matters as arranging help for a clandestine operation inside the United States.

One source knowledgeable about the Hunt-Liddy burglary plan gave the following version of how the agency's cooperation was enlisted:

The CIA connection was initiated by Hunt, who had instant telephone communication with that agency and other intelligence offices through a highly secure scrambler telephone that he and Liddy ordered installed in their quarters in the Executive Office Building, next to the White House.

Further Authority

After being told by a CIA official that further authority was needed before the agency could provide any assistance, the source said, Hunt went to Krogh, who took the problem to his superior, Ehrlichman.

Then the source went on:

"Ehrlichman makes a telephone call to Cushman, and says, 'Hey, these guys need some chores done. Won't you take care of it?' Cushman says, 'OK, I'll do it.'"

"There was absolutely nothing in writing," the source said. "There was only one call, just a little lean-on call by Ehrlichman. And then Hunt and Liddy began asking for safehouses and all the rest."

At the time of Mr. Ehrlichman's alleged call, all the key intelligence agencies of the government were said to be cooperating with the Hunt-Liddy group.

President Nixon was known to have been angered by the disclosure of the Pentagon Papers, which were published in part by the New York Times in June, 1971, and by publication by the Times a few months later of details of the strategic arms agreement, then being worked out by the White House and the Soviet Union.

Neither magazine identified its source in announcing that the stories would be published in issues that reach news stands Monday.

Dole, interviewed on NBC's "Issues and Answers," said an administration shift toward more liberal or centrist policies "might be helpful politically now that some of Nixon's top aides associated with more right-wing policies have left the White House."

Both Gurney and Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., who appeared on the program with him, agreed it was improper for the White House to offer the judge in the Pentagon Papers trial a top government job while the trial was under way.

The President and Ehrlichman met with U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne to approach him about taking over the FBI directorship. Since then, Byrne has disclosed evidence of White House involvement in the case against Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, who are on trial in Los Angeles charged with espionage for leaking the Pentagon Papers to the press.

Defense attorneys in the case said Sunday they will ask a federal appeals court to order the charges against Ellsberg and Russo dismissed on grounds that the White House tried to compromise the judge.

Byrne said he hadn't been prejudiced by the meeting and refused to dismiss the case Friday.

Electrical Relay In Cadillacs Said Hazard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Center for Auto Safety said Sunday that an electrical relay in 1969 and 1970 Cadillacs constitutes a serious fire hazard.

General Motors said the relays are "no real safety hazard," although the company did say it had noted a large number of relay failures in the 275,000 cars.

GM said at worst the failures result in a loss of the high speed on the air conditioner and heater blower.

Federal law requires recall only of those defects which are considered a safety hazard.

The center said the relay failures have resulted in three painful burns to individuals, one of whom required hospital treatment. The center quoted what it called a reliable source as saying in some cases Cadillacs had burned to the ground.

The center also quoted General Motors internal documents as showing the relay failures burned up much of the car's wiring and even the car itself.

General Motors said, "There is no evidence in our files or any files that we know of that would support any such assertion."

General Motors said its documents included some forwarded by the center, and those files show four fires, all of them confined to the instrument panel or under the hood.

Those documents show no burns to any individuals and one minor non-burn injury, GM said.

General Motors also questioned whether the incidents should be labeled "fires" at all, since the cases involved only melted insulation or charring.

The Center for Auto Safety, which is funded primarily by Consumers Union, also charged GM with covering up the relay failures in order to avoid a recall and to protect its "Standard of the World" image.

General Motors denied there had been any coverup and said it eventually redesigned the relay.

The center urged General Motors and the Department of Transportation to recall the Cadillacs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council suspects that many companies, anticipating either a price freeze or stronger economic controls, have boosted prices recently in violation of government standards.

The council, however, has yet to get the goods on any firm that has gone beyond the rules in this way. And it may be mid-June or even later before it has the evidence to roll back any such price increases.

Council officials believe President Nixon's decision to tighten Phase 3 price controls will help in nailing down anticipatory price increases and forcing them down.

Nixon last week ordered large companies to notify the government in advance when they increase average prices more than 1.5 per cent above the levels of Jan. 10, the day before the largely voluntary Phase 3 price-control system began.

He also ordered these firms to report to the government all their price actions since Phase 3 began through April 30. These reports will be used to zero in on any illegal price increases.

But the council said the public should not expect massive price rollbacks.

In the first place, the reports do not have to be in until about the middle of June. And the council isn't expecting many companies will be reaching the average 1.5 per cent level in price boosts very soon.

But William Walker, general counsel for the agency, said there probably will be some rollbacks once the reports are analyzed. They will be studied on a case-by-case basis.

According to the government's price guidelines, price boosts must reflect legitimate costs. Hiking them merely in anticipation of costs is considered illegal.

The anticipatory price increases came while Congress was considering extension of the Economic Stabilization Act for another year, to April 30, 1974.

Congress debated price freezes and rollbacks before finally killing all such proposals and giving President Nixon the one-year extension of the law he wanted.

Not only did some businesses push up prices in anticipation of a congressional freeze, but others believed Nixon was going to pre-empt the situation with strong action of his own, council officials said.

Chicago — In 1971, savings and loan associations paid their depositors a record $8.5 billion in interest.

Martha's Suggestion Termed 'Ridiculous'

... By Her Husband

WASHINGTON (AP) — Martha Mitchell's reported suggestion that President Nixon resign because of Watergate "is ridiculous," her husband, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, said Sunday.

Mitchell issued a statement saying United Press International, which carried the suggestion in a story, took advantage of a personal telephone call from Mrs. Mitchell to a UPI reporter Saturday.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward J. Gurney said, "We have a governmental crisis at hand in this country." The presidency, he said, is "sort of adrift, like a ship with its sails torn by a storm and without a rudder."

The Florida Republican, a member of the Senate Judiciary and Watergate committees, was interviewed on the CBS broadcast "Face the Nation."

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, former Republican national chairman, said the Watergate scandal has damaged President Nixon's credibility, but "I don't think it is fatal... much depends on what happens as the facts come out in the Watergate."

In another development, Time and Newsweek magazines said ousted presidential counsel John W. Dean III is prepared to testify that President Nixon personally congratulated him for covering up the administration's involvement in the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building complex.

Newsweek said Nixon remarked at a meeting in the Oval Office last September with Dean and White House chief of staff H. R. (Bob) Haldeman, "Good job, John. Bob told me what a great job you've been doing."

Time said the meeting was among Nixon, Dean and domestic-affairs adviser John D. Ehrlichman and that Nixon said: "John here tells me you've been doing fine work."

Neither magazine identified its source in announcing that the stories would be published in issues that reach news stands Monday.

Dole, interviewed on NBC's "Issues and Answers," said an administration shift toward more liberal or centrist policies "might be helpful politically now that some of Nixon's top aides associated with more right-wing policies have left the White House."

Both Gurney and Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., who appeared on the program with him, agreed it was improper for the White House to offer the judge in the Pentagon Papers trial a top government job while the trial was under way.

The President and Ehrlichman met with U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne to approach him about taking over the FBI directorship. Since then, Byrne has disclosed evidence of White House involvement in the case against Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, who are on trial in Los Angeles charged with espionage for leaking the Pentagon Papers to the press.

Defense attorneys in the case said Sunday they will ask a federal appeals court to order the charges against Ellsberg and Russo dismissed on grounds that the White House tried to compromise the judge.

Byrne said he hadn't been prejudiced by the meeting and refused to dismiss the case Friday.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

There go the hopes of millions of people, down the drain, by a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision. It wasn't one of those big decisions involving people high up in the affairs of the nation.

It did involve the Readers Digest, however, one of the better little money-makers of its day. But the plaintiff in the case, if you can call it that, was the State of Washington, for all its citizens.

Washington felt that the Digest "sweepstakes" violated that state's ban against lotteries and the high court went along with the idea. Not that anybody in Washington had much of a chance to win the thousands of dollars in Digest prizes but think of the dreams now shattered.

One cannot dwell too much on the odds in such things as this — the important thing is, think of what might be if you happened to be the lucky winner. How many things such as a sweepstakes do you get in the mail every year? It seems that every week at least, the postman delivers to your mailbox at least one set of numbers selected especially for you.

The people holding all these drawings have really gotten the thing down to a neat package. The form letter you receive is cleverly camouflaged to make it look like a personal note from the company. The idea here is to get you thinking that you are maybe one in a few thousand to be in on the drawing rather than one in millions.

Some outfits have devised a new gimmick. They supposedly have a drawing for the lucky numbers before any numbers are sent out to the public in general. When you get your very own numbers in the mail, you are informed that you might well have already won.

If so, all you need do is return the numbers to the sender and your prize will be on the way. That is what you call psychology, suggesting something in such a way as to make it seem highly plausible.

And then the big dreams come into play. There is that trip to Europe you and your wife have always thought of taking and the $10,000 in prize money would make it a snap.

There is the old broken-down car sitting out in the driveway and the prize money would put a brand new one in its place. There is that house down the street with everything in it you want but a price tag beyond your budget. The "sweepstakes" money would make it yours.

Wondering how to pay for that college education for the kids or how to clean up the latest batch of medical bills? How will you take care of Aunt Minnie in her old age or pay back the bank the dough you borrowed for income taxes? The old lucky number would do it and then some.

It would handle just about anything you might mention such as a new wardrobe, new furniture or appliances for the home, the boat you have always craved, a new color TV, etc.

You have to give Readers Digest and other contest or lottery sponsors credit; they know the dreams that are held by most people and they know that an unexpected cash windfall is about the only thing that could turn those dreams into reality. It's there they have you hooked.

Oh, you know the odds against your winning are formidable, although we doubt that people know how fantastically formidable they are, but you just never know. After all, the odds are the same for everyone and somebody is going to walk away with the prize.

Good old human nature, with a little greed mixed in, is a pretty powerful motivating force. But alas, it is back to the old grindstone for the people of Washington (and Nebraska) as the high court has taken all the fun out of life. Oh well, you can't win 'em all, as the saying goes.

Trouble On The Big Board As Director-Election Nears

Washington — Members of the New York Stock Exchange will elect 10 directors on May 14.

The big board, as the exchange is commonly known, has turned into the institutional equivalent of the Incredible Shrinking Man. The Dow Jones average is in another prolonged slump. The volume of shares traded has declined sharply, and in February no fewer than 56 of the exchange's member firms were running in the red. Most disheartening of all perhaps the going price for a seat on the exchange has dropped below $100,000 — one-fifth as much as a seat cost only four years ago.

Perhaps this is merely another temporary slump for the securities industry, which is accustomed to alternating slumps by the heat and the bull. Or perhaps not. Many Wall Street observers believe that the present method of trading stocks and bonds is antiquated and that a new system is needed.

Asked to account for the industry's current troubles, NYSE Chairman James J. Neenan told Business Week: "You've got to look at transactions. The volume isn't really the key. When you know who's doing business with whom you see how many transactions are between institutions — and negotiated rates have knocked $80 million a year out of our member firms' revenues from institutional business. Brokers' interest costs have gone up. Occupancy costs have gone up. Salary costs have gone up. Underwritings are down substantially."

Bad as conditions are today on Wall Street, they pale in comparison with the near-debacle of 1970. At that time, many brokerage houses did not have proper accounting. "They didn't know if they were making or losing money," Forbes magazine recently noted.

When the crisis passed, Congress approved a law creating a Securities Investor Protection Corp. to safeguard investors' interests. In addition, the New York Stock Exchange greatly strengthened its rules on capital requirements for members firms. And so, when the exchange posted a record total of 4.14 billion shares traded in 1972 (an average of 16.5 million a day), happy times seemed to have returned to Wall Street.

The euphoria has since faded. At the end of March the NYSE announced an 800,000 drop in the number of individual shareholders, the first such decline since it began keeping records 20 years ago.

Another cause for gloom is proposed federal legislation that would end fixed stock brokerage commission rates by April 30, 1974. At present, stock commissions are fixed on the first $300,000 of a transaction but are negotiated on the balance of a large trade.

The institutional traders that now dominate the stock market may eventually overwhelm it. Chris Welles predicted in New York magazine that, "We will very soon begin to see examples of institutions owning enough stock in a company to influence corporate policy, dominating trading in that company's stock, and controlling the Wall Street house which is the company's investment banker or which is the major marketmaster in its stock. No wonder Wall Street is gloomy."

'I Think We're Being Phased Out'

Administration Changes Tune

If the lesson hasn't settled on them yet, readers should be advised that the value of an independent and dogged press to a free society has been majestically demonstrated in the Watergate affair and associated crimes.

This is not to give the press a supercilious pat on the back and forgive and then forget its faults. It is to point out that the press is there when it really counts. And it's hoped that the reading public will reflect with a cooler eye on the blatant anti-press bias of the Nixon administration before Watergate. It was a bias that was shared by an uncomfortably large number of people.

The facts spilling forth paint a sordid picture that is all too familiar by now. Conspiracy, burglary, wiretapping, agents hired to subvert opposing campaigns, loose handling of vast sums of campaign money — which is at the root of it all — invasion of privacy through theft of psychiatric records, shoddy cover-ups and on and on, ad nauseum.

Would the Watergate dam have broken if a timid press had relied on handouts and the solemn word of those involved? Such men, as were involved in the Watergate, some of them unethical and some, to be charitable, struck blind and insensitized by zeal, are prone to crack when the going gets tough; to rat on one another to save their own skins. The magnitude of the operation also dictated that there would be leaks. But it takes pressure, and in this instance the pressure was applied by the press — who else could have applied it effectively? — certainly not McGovern — which pursued the Watergate crimes when the administration and most of the public wanted the issue hushed into the past.

The resulting flood caused Vice President Agnew to publicly regret some of his prior attacks on the media. It caused President Nixon to stop by the White House press room after his speech last week to tell "the boys" gathered there to keep giving him hell when he deserved it. And it prompted Press Secretary Ron Ziegler to apologize to the Washington Post, which was foremost among the media in pursuing Watergate.

These were not minor concessions that were made by a press-hating administration. They were grudging admissions of respect for a job well done by one of the pillars of a free society.

Caught red-handed, they whistled a humble tune; when the administration was riding high, as Eric Sevareid put it, it was a far different story.

North Lincoln Attitude Persists

State Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln reportedly charged last week that proposed City Charter Amendment No. 1, which called for the election of city councilmen by district, did not receive fair consideration on the ballot because the mayor, the council and both Lincoln newspapers were opposed to district elections.

Opposed they were, but such opposition in the past hasn't prevented voters from exercising their independent judgment on issues.

And the excuse can't be made that the issue was so confusing the voters had to rely on explanations by biased officials and newspapers. Election by district as opposed to election at large is, after all, an easily understood proposition.

If any sentiment was stacked against Amendment No. 1, it probably was because of the high-handed tactics employed by the Lincoln-area delegation to the Legislature, of which Simpson is a part, in forcing the issue on to the ballot.

Goodbye To All That

WASHINGTON — To many Americans, the resignations of Messrs. Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean and Kleindienst may mark the collapse of the Nixon administration and of Republican ambitions to forge a new national majority.

I could not disagree more, but my explanation must, of necessity, be something of a personal one. As background, let me say that I worked in the 1968 Nixon campaign and served in the administration until spring, 1970, when I resigned to begin writing this column. Based on my personal experience, I had little use for Haldeman and Ehrlichman and the way they ran the White House, and from time to time, I said so. My support for the GOP, its policies and ideology, has not extended to the clique running the White House, and the distinction has always seemed important.

These and kindred observations were sometimes dismissed as sour grapes or unfair behavior toward an administration in which I had served. Now that it is no longer a lonely task to argue that Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Company have been an albatross around the neck of the Republican party and its future, it may be appropriate to wax optimistic about the party's prospects without them. Indeed it is only in appreciating their role that one can realize the potential importance of their departure.

During the 1968 campaign, as the several factions around the future President were jockeying for power, one member of the Haldeman-Ehrlichman clique bragged to me that his side would win — and he quoted his leaders — because "we've got the body." The body he referred to was that of Mr. Nixon. Quite simply, Haldeman and Ehrlichman, together with their coterie of aides and flunkies, planned to use their control of the President's personal and staff apparatus to build themselves an unprecedented political empire. Lamentably, the President was extraordinarily vulnerable because of his day-to-day managerial incapacity and his great dislike of face-to-face conflict or participation in policy disputes between subordinates. Haldeman and Ehrlichman had wormed their way to Nixon's side in 1960, and by 1968, they believed — correctly, it turned out — that they could parlay their managerial position into control of the White House.

For most Americans, their power is simply a facet of the Watergate mess. But for those of us in the 1968 campaign and in the Republican party who had looked for something more, it has been a heartbreaking waste of a historic opportunity. Under the auspices of Haldeman and Ehrlichman, the White House filled up with pretty boys, ad-men, efficiency experts and other people whose political competence ranged from negligible to invisible.

With no broader political experience than siding up to Richard Nixon, with no commitment to ideas or ideology, and with no broader political goal than selfish aggrandizement of White House power, the Haldeman-Ehrlichman combine has been a disaster for the administration and for the Republican party. In retrospect, former Attorney General John Mitchell seems to have been similarly narrow and culpable. The failure is much bigger than the Watergate alone.

Politically, the hegemony of the Haldemans, Ehrlichmans and Mitchells has been a disaster. During the first four years of the Nixon administration, the obvious failure of the Great Society was unperceived and unacted upon.

The 1970 congressional campaigns, run out of the White House, were a shrill travesty on "law and order" and a forfeiture of the GOP opportunity to make real ideological strides. As late as 1971, liberal welfare and school busing panaceas were being advanced rather than condemned by the White House. Even in 1972, it took the rise of George McGovern and the favor wrought by George Wallace to convince the White House poobahs of the real shape and trend of American politics. Their shallowness, almost impossible to capsule for the layman, has now been proven — but at what a cost!

Anybody who blames the Republican party for the Watergate activities of these people is grievously mistaken. Time after time, disillusioned Republicans have met secretly to plot — alas, futilely — how the Haldeman-Ehrlichman hegemony could be broken. In 1972, the White House clique, selfish political amateurs to the end, waged virtual war on Republican party regulars, refusing to help local GOP candidates and showing no interest in the future of the rest of the party.

Thus, many Republicans are delighted that the stranglehold of this alien clique has been broken. Now the White House may open up to talent. Ideas and ideology may come to the fore, and the Republican party can have a new chance to grasp the opportunity and challenge of national realignment. No U.S. political revolution could have been fully consummated with the shallow, gimmicky-minded Waterbuggers in the White House saddle.

The timing of John Connally's conversion to Republicanism is, at best a little odd.

Although he apparently has been planning the political sex change for months, he chose to perform the operation only after Watergate had flooded the White House and washed out some of the debris.

As soon as word of the drowning of Haldeman and Ehrlichman and Dean got out, Connally got in.

Perhaps he admired their work.

Hello, John. This is John Connally. John, this is the President. Welcome to the Grand Old Party.

Well, thanks, Mr. President. I feel pretty comfortable about the decision. I've always been a Republican at heart, you know.

Well, John, there's some room at the top in our party. I'd like to have you come back to Washington if you're interested.

Yeah, I understand you're having a little trouble.

Well, it's pretty well taken care of, I think. The mail on the TV speech is pretty good.

But how can you be sure it isn't coming from the Committee to Re-Elect the President?

I'm having the FBI check into that. They're very accessible. All over the place, in fact. What did you think of the speech?

I saw it.

Well, how did you think it went?

Not bad, Mr. President. Good staging. Good props. The picture of the family, the bust of Lincoln, the big American flag, all very effective. But you could have used a Bible.

Well, we thought of that. But we couldn't fit it all into the picture. It was either the bust or the Bible.

Why Lincoln?

Enlisting Military Misfits

WASHINGTON — Army recruiters, under pressure to meet enlistment quotas, have signed up men who had been "permanently rejected" for the draft. They include recruits with organic heart disease, psychiatric disorders, epilepsy and even a couple with missing trigger fingers.

These military misfits were discovered in Wisconsin, the only state where an investigation has been conducted. Spokesmen at the U. S. Army Recruiting Command, Hampton, Va., told us they had no reason to believe the recruiting procedures turned up in Wisconsin were practiced elsewhere. But they admitted that enlistment standards are the same in all 50 states.

Robert Levine, the Wisconsin Selective Service director, recently ordered a statewide survey of the men enlisted in his state since December 1, 1972. He found that 75 of those accepted for enlistment had flunked either physical or mental tests for the draft.

With the help of publisher John Lavine, whose newspapers in Chippewa Falls, Portage and Baraboo, Wis., carry our column, we have broken loose the results of the Selective Service survey.

Two men had been rejected for the draft because they had missing trigger fingers, two suffered organic heart disease; two had serious psychiatric problems; two were afflicted with epilepsy; two had "deranged elbows"; one was missing a left thumb; still another had three pins in his left hip.

All of these deficiencies, according to military spokesmen, are sufficient to disqualify a man from military service. The Wisconsin survey also found that 17 men accepted by recruiters had previously failed the military's basic intelligence tests. In a letter to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Selective Service Director Levine offered a possible explanation.

"The recruiters operate what is called 'dumb-dumb' school for volunteers who flunk the intelligence test. This consists of a full-day cram course covering previously given intelligence tests, predictably, most men pass on re-examination."

One of Levine's inspectors told us that such "refresher" courses are routinely conducted in rented YMCA rooms in Milwaukee. Many "current enlistments," he wrote, "are failing to meet minimum standards of quality for the armed forces."

Many of the men disqualified in tests for the Wisconsin draft, he suggested, had "corrective" deficiencies. But the Levine investigation, he said, has turned up what may be "fraudulent" recruiting practices. "There will be a very careful investigation of each of these cases," he promised.

President Nixon, showing his compassionate side while embroiled in the Watergate scandal, quietly sent Alabama's Gov.

Now, be serious, John. Well, maybe I could divert attention for you.

Your announcement helped some, John. Why don't you agree to come back and help clear up this mess for me.

That's not quite what I had in mind, Mr. President.

What do you have in mind? Well, I like part of your idea. What's that?

Cleaning up the mess. Okay, John, okay. That's great. I knew you were my friend. Come clean up the mess.

The timing's bad.

Well, wait a few weeks — or months if you want to. I was thinking of years.

I was thinking of volunteering to clean up the mess in 1976. I will offer to restore dignity and honor and prestige to the White House in 1976.

But John, that's not going to help me.

It's gonna help one of us, Mr. President.

Contribution from Greg Graff.

It's called "Teutonic Melancholy" and here it goes.

"History repeats itself or, at least, that's what every college freshman is told in his very historical survey course.

"In view of recent events, we feel it might behoove us to present this modest, but delightful, little matching test to those of you who skipped that freshman course, shall we say, a few too many times.

"Try to match each item in Column A with another item in Column B which best illustrates the cyclical nature of history.

"Column A: King Timahoe; GOP; Ziegler; Camp David; Six (Seven); Crises; The Watergate Bug; Nixon.

"Column B: Reichstag Fire; Goebbels; Schickelgruber; Mein Kampf; Eagles Nest; Blondi; National Socialist Party."

Poll: Use Of U.S. Bombers In Cambodia Opposed

Monday, May 7, 1973 The Lincoln Star 5

By LOUIS HARRIS
The American people were deeply worried in mid-April that "Cambodia will fall to the Communists," and yet also disapproved by 49-33% of the use of B-52 bombers in the fighting that has continued in that country.

When asked why they opposed the use of U.S. bombers in Cambodia, the public volunteered three principal types of objections: (1) "we have no business there and should get out," (2) "the bombing is inhuman and should be stopped," and (3) "it could lead to our becoming involved in another Vietnam."

The prevailing mood in the country today clearly doubts that either the North Vietnamese or South Vietnamese intend to live up to the peace accords reached in Paris. A large 73% felt in mid-April it was at least "somewhat likely" that Cambodia would fall to the Communists. Even so, there was little disposition to wish another deep U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia, since Americans now agree, by 70-21%, that our involvement in Vietnam was a "mistake."

Key Results
Here are key results from a nationwide Harris Survey conducted between April 18 and 23 among 1,537 households:
—A 56% majority believed that "war will break out again between North and South Vietnam."

—By 58-27%, the public also felt that "the government of South Vietnam will violate the terms of the Vietnam peace agreement."

—By a much higher 82-7%, a lopsided majority also thought the "government of North Vietnam will violate" the peace accord.

—A majority of 73% of the public felt that it is at least "somewhat likely" that Cambodia will fall to the Communists.
—A majority of 69% also thought it is "somewhat likely" that "Laos will fall to the Communists."

High Marks
Despite these dark forebodings that the Vietnam peace will not work out, President Nixon received high marks for his efforts to reach agreement with North Vietnam. The public was asked:
"How would you rate President Nixon on (read item) — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

NIXON RATINGS ON VIETNAM AND POW'S
Pos. Neg. Not
tive five Sure
Bringing the war in Vietnam to a close 64% 34% 2%
Bringing the POW's home from Vietnam 80% 18% 2%

The relief at having American fighting men and prisoners brought home clearly has been immense. However, the closing period of the Vietnam experience has not been one of unmitigated joy. The cross section was asked:

Louis Harris
People
Worried

"When the U.S. prisoners-of-war finally came home, did you feel like celebrating as you might have after World War II, or did you feel more relieved that a terrible burden was being removed, or did you feel more sad that the prisoners-of-war had been so long in captivity?"

FEELINGS UPON POW RELEASE
Total Public
Felt like celebrating 8%
Felt relieved 51%
Felt sad 35%
Not sure 6%

The main reasons why people "felt relieved" but did not feel like celebrating the return of the prisoners-of-war could be found in three reactions volunteered by sizable numbers. A systems engineer in Lynbrook, N.Y., put it this way, "At least we can feel that no more American boys will be killed. That's a great relief."

A student in Durham, North Carolina, summed up another characteristic response, "It

Head-On Crash Kills Seven In No. Carolina

Dallas, N.C. (UPI) — Authorities said seven persons were killed early Sunday in a head-on collision between two cars traveling on Highway 321 near here.

Six of those killed when one vehicle apparently veered across the center line and struck the other were young people. It was unclear which vehicle veered.

The Highway Patrol identified the victims as Bobby Dean Webb, 34, of Lincolnton, alone in his car; Ricky Merrill, 19, the other driver; Jerry Wright, 7; Ken Lee Durham, 13; Roy A. Gilmore, 13; Bernard Kennedy, 13 and Gregory Jackson, 16, all of Gastonia.

should have ended long ago and we never should have been there. But at last, it is over." A housewife in York, Pennsylvania, said, "It was good to see those men come off the planes, but it broke your heart to think of all that the families and wives of the POW's had gone through."

Underlying the sense of relief but not exultation is the view of 70-21% in the country that "it was a mistake for the United States to have become involved in the Vietnam war." This conviction in turn has an impact on the public attitude toward the use of B-52 bombers in the continuing fighting in Cambodia.

The cross section was asked, "The U.S. has used B-52 bombers in Cambodia in the fighting that has gone on there, because it is felt the peace in Vietnam is threatened. Do you approve or disapprove of the

Five Skiers Die In Avalanche; Boy, 12, Alive

MARTIGNY, Switzerland (AP) — Five skiers died under an avalanche in the Valais Alps, police reported Sunday.

A 12-year-old boy who narrowly escaped the snowslide Saturday was taken to a hospital for treatment for shock.

The men all were members of a local ski club preparing a course for a weekend ski race at an altitude of about 5,000 feet. Two bodies were recovered late Saturday in a large scale search operation involving up to 100 persons and two helicopters.

Local officials said there was no hope for the three men still missing.

Disapprove 49%
Not sure 18%

The lingering worry about U.S. bombings in Cambodia centers on the concern that we can become involved in another Vietnam, just at a time when people finally believed American involvement in the fighting in Southeast Asia had ended. The desire to stay out of any future conflicts runs deep, despite the prevailing public view that the Vietnam peace agreement likely will come unstuck.

The cross section was asked: "In the next year or so, how likely do you think it is that (read list)—very likely, only somewhat likely, or very unlikely?"

Very Likely Somewhat Likely Very Unlikely Not Sure
War will break out again between North and South Vietnam 56% 29% 8% 7%

Laos will fall to the Communists 38% 31% 10% 21%
American planes will have to be used to bomb North Vietnam 37% 24% 21% 18%

The ultimate concern among 61% of the public is the likelihood that American planes will have to be used to bomb North Vietnam. And that, to most of the public, would bring the war back to a stage this country has no desire to experience again.

Postal Strike Ends In Italy; Mails In Chaos

ROME (AP) — Postal unions reached agreement with the government Sunday on wage and other demands and said they would call off the strikes that have left the Italian mails in chaos.

Postal officials estimated it would take at least a month to clear the huge backlog of mail that accumulated during the nearly month-long walkouts.

Premier Giulio Andreotti stepped in last Friday after it became clear the strike was taking a heavy toll on the Italian economy.

Country, City Together For Recital At Hyannis

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer
Hyannis — With the help of a ranch-full of home grown western hospitality, the two not so different worlds of city and country were joined here this weekend as Nebraska artists-in-residence Grant Johannesen and Zsara Nelova came to perform on their final tour of the 1972-73 year.

The artists, who have appeared either singly or together in 16 performances throughout the state since October, played a duo recital in this small Sandhills community Saturday night.

And although there may have been more cowboy boots than usual in the audience of 300 which filled the new high school's small concert hall, there was no less appreciation for the musical genius of the husband-and-wife piano-cello duo.

Monahan Proud
As the final strains of the Rachmaninoff Sonata drifted through the hall, James Monahan sat in a row near the front and glanced around the room, his face beaming with the pride of accomplishment.

It was Monahan and his wife, with the help of the Arnold

Blacks of Alliance, who had headed up the planning for the event, which included a pre-recital feast for about 100 guests at the Monahan's ranch east of Hyannis.

There, guests from all parts of the state gobbled up 68 pounds of beef which had baked all day in a yard-size pit, ate a pot or two of beans and enjoyed a pure Nebraska Sandhills view looking up and down a valley lush with native bluegrass.

New York Critic
Hands down winner of a distance-traveled contest would have been Harold Schonberg, senior music critic of the New York Times, who had accepted the invitation of University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner to review the event.

Schonberg, a New York City-born and raised music expert, pitched in with a shovel to help uncover the barbecue pit and then grabbed a knife and sliced beef for hungry guests.

"I was well trained," he said of his carving talents later as he waited for Johannesen and Miss Nelova to begin their recital.

Other travelers found a bit of themselves here too: —NU Regent Kermit Hansen of Omaha, who remembers riding for three days by horseback in 1933 from a ranch where he worked near Merriman to Hyannis.

—Newspaperman Joe R. Seacrest of Lincoln, who was a Monahan ranchhand 35 summers ago.

—Pianist Johannesen, a Utah native and now a New Yorker, who described with obvious pleasure the Nebraska wildlife he'd seen during an afternoon tour of the 100,000-acre ranch and mentioned Willa Cather-like landscapes he'd seen Friday night driving to Seward for a recital there.

In the recital, the Johannesens displayed their artistic expertise in works by Beethoven, Grieg, Faure and others and then climbed aboard the Monahan's motorized camper for the 60-mile trip back to the Alliance airport, closest landing strip for large aircraft.

That trip ended a day whose flavor was best captured earlier when the artists, dressed in formal attire, left the Monahan ranch for the recital hall, driving past white-faced Herefords grazing on the Sandhills that had inspired Mark Sandos in this century and scores of Indian poets in centuries past.

SCS Workshop Held In Lincoln ...

Outdoor Classroom Concept Taught

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor
A three-and-a-half acre plot adjacent to Holmes School was used this past week to teach Soil Conservation Service (SCS) technicians how to develop an outdoor classroom.

The outdoor classroom concept is an effort to provide areas near schools for youngsters to study nature and the environment. The SCS people hope to see a number of these outdoor classrooms or mini-environments developed by schools throughout the state.

The special workshop in Lincoln Wednesday featured Ron Berth, principal of the Norris Elementary School at Millard, as one of the speakers. The Millard school has a minitidy area nearby.

About 20 technicians from all parts of the state participated in the workshop, which included developing plans for the area, now owned by the Lincoln Electric System (LES). LES has used part of the site for two electric substations.

A number of school authorities are interested in developing the area into an outdoor classroom. The idea has been discussed by school officials and the next step, if it develops, seems to be a meeting between Lincoln school authorities and representatives of the mayor's office and LES officials.

West Point Workshop

A similar workshop was held at West Point Thursday for technicians in that part of the state.

SCS personnel will aid any school that seeks to develop an outdoor classroom.

The cost of the project is quite small. We find that most of the plants needed are donated and we like to see the youngsters do most of the work themselves," said John Cross of the state SCS office. "Actually, they will learn much more if they play an active role in the development and maintenance of the project themselves," Cross said.

The project provides an opportunity for children to learn to identify plants, watch them develop and identify the effects of changes in the seasons on plant life.

Bob Koerner, SCS biologist said, "They are quite a bit of work to start, but once you get them going they are fairly easy to maintain because you sort of let nature run things."

Anything Possible
Koerner explained that almost anything is possible. "You can have a vegetable garden, plant trees, make some animal shelters which are as simple as a bird house, study soils and do about anything you want to."

The SCS people supply a teacher and a kit similar to conservation plans farmers are well acquainted with.

"It is written in layman's language so she doesn't need any special training and we will even help with lesson plans if the teacher asks us," Koerner said.

Ruth Eikman, principal at Holmes School has been watching the SCS use of the plot with growing interest. "We are very much interested in the concept of an outdoor classroom," she said.

"I think we need to keep some areas in the tinner parts of our city green," Koerner said. "I would like to see this developed into such a project. The steep bank on the west side could be made into a bleacher area for seats and the area has all sorts of possibilities," he added.

Any school in the state interested in developing such a project is invited to contact the nearest SCS office for assistance.

Projects that help teach about environmental problems can range from a window box to a farm. "It just depends on what is available," Cross said.

and Charolais sires and from Hereford and Angus cows.

During Laster's presentation he will relate the effect of calving difficulty on subsequent rebreeding in 1,889 cows, and the effects of calving difficulty on calf survival in a study of 5,064 calvings.

Also included in Laster's talk will be results from two studies on inducing multiple births in beef cattle.

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

One important development in the past two weeks has helped move some grain owned by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC). Most of that which was moved had been stored in larger elevators capable of loading large numbers of cars at once.

The eastern railroads have worked out an arrangement using coal cars covered with well-made canvas tops to move a limited amount of CCC grain via a coal exporting port on the East Coast.

The people there are experienced in loading and unloading ships and know how to operate the coal cars that gave grain people at the Gulf of Mexico fits.

I understand about 20 train loads of grain are involved to

Political Espionage Said Not Likely In Nebraska

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer
Political espionage in Nebraska?

A Watergate in the Cornhusker State? Unheard of, and unlikely, say sources close to state level politics.

"In my 33 years of varied experience in Nebraska politics, I have never known of any effort at political espionage," said former Republican Gov. Robert B. Crosby, now a Lincoln lawyer.

"Oh, you try to anticipate what the opposition is going to do, and you listen carefully to what's said and reported. But trying to get any information through spying—I've never heard of that being done or attempted. And heaven forbid that there would be any electronic surveillance or breaking in."

Democratic Gov. J. James Exon, long a leader in his party, echoed the view.

"In any campaign that I have ever seen or heard anything to do with, I have never known of political espionage as such," Exon said. He said he knows of no efforts to infiltrate or disrupt, and said campaigners in Nebraska "have simply relied on the record of the opposition."

Comments of these and other Nebraskans whose views were sought in the wake of the Watergate scandal in Washington turned up suggestions that:

—There are few political secrets in Nebraska worth stealing.

—There's scarcely enough expertise at the state level for any sophisticated espionage.

"If it were attempted in Nebraska, it would be bungled worse than Watergate," said state Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, the only political independent in the 49-member state Legislature.

"I rather think," said Crosby, "that most Nebraska politicians would not expect the headquarters of the other party to have anything worth stealing."

"In my personal campaigns and in state Republican politics when I was active, I don't remember any pieces of paper or files that you cared much whether the opposition saw or not. There might have been some lists of names but most of those we publicized anyway."

Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton, a 1970 rival of Exon for the Democratic nomination for governor, discounted the possibility of past or future political espionage. He suggested the parties in Nebraska "have been so busy with infighting that they haven't devoted enough time to checking up on each other, and that's too bad because checks and balances are part of the system."

Strangely, although significant national or international developments usually spark some references on the legislative floor, the only comments on Watergate have been sideline and cloakroom comments.

But the scandal did not escape attention at the recent Jefferson-Jackson Dinner in Lincoln, the annual fund-raising rally of the state's Democrats.

"I think we can assume this is the only microphone in the room," said Minnesota Gov. Wendell R. Anderson as he began the main dinner speech.

At another point, he said: "Every decent American now knows that any one of our 1972 candidates for president—Humphrey or Jackson, Muskie or McGovern, and the rest—any one of them would be a better president today than Richard Nixon."

National Commitwoman Francis Ohmsted of Guide Rock suggested the White House these days is occupied "by the best men money can buy."

On one Watergate-related point, Gov. Anderson proved less than prophetic. He referred to speculation that former Texas Gov. John Connally was considering a switch from the Democratic party to the GOP.

Anderson suggested that to make the switch at this time would be akin "to renting a deck chair on the Titanic." But within the week, Connally made the switch.

5 Die Over Weekend In Nebraska Accidents

Fifty-eight-year-old Mrs. Mildred Vandewater of Commerce City, Colo., died in a hospital Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday night when he was struck by a car.

Police said a car driven by James Kucerek, 57, of Omaha, struck a car, careened across the street into another car, went over a sidewalk and struck two pedestrians.

One pedestrian was Novotny. The other was his wife, Mary, 85, who was injured. She was reported in good condition at a hospital.

Kucerek suffered facial cuts and was released from a hospital after treatment.

Three persons died in a head-on collision of two vehicles 4 miles west of Neligh on Highway 275 Saturday night, the State Patrol said.

They were identified as Bernelda Ponczak, 21, of O'Neill; Louanna Witniss, 21, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Karen Pelster, 23, of Elgin.

The pickup truck involved was driven by James McKillip, 36, of Neligh.

The patrol said the pickup was headed west and attempting to pass a car when it met the Pelster car. The dead all were riding in the car.

Lincoln alumni of Peru State College will hold a 7 p.m. dinner meeting Friday at the Legionnaire Club.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

An effort organized by Ralph Kissenger, a cattle feeder from Fairfield, may lead to a more economical method of keeping cattle in a confined feedlot under roof.

Kissenger is allowing the University of Nebraska to use his operation as a testing ground for methods of feeding cattle indoors. He has also contributed $500 to a fund to finance studies related to the problem and is asking other feeders to contribute to the fund.

People interested in learning more about the research effort can do so by visiting with Conrad Goibertson, a U.S. Department of Agriculture engineer with the Agriculture Research Service at the University of Nebraska East Campus or contact Paul Johnson, executive secretary of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association at Schuyler.

If you think the American consumer is angry about the low priced wheat sale to Russia, you should talk to a consumer in the European Economic Community (EEC) otherwise known as the Common Market.

The EEC board has announced a huge sale of butter, some 200,000 tons of it, to Russia for 18 cents a pound. The consumer in the EEC is forced to pay $1.25 a pound for the stuff due to a high support price for home-grown products.

This common agricultural policy of high support prices coupled with a tremendous import tax is what makes it so difficult to export American products to Europe.

You can expect a major battle in the Congress and in the trade talks before this problem is settled.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz just returned from talks with the EEC and is said to be furious over the reception he received there. Butz has had his recommendations constantly rejected to the point that the Cost of Living Council is actually making the top level decisions at the Department of Agriculture. One hopes that the outspoken secretary will be permitted to make some of his desires to increase U.S. farm exports felt in the trade negotiations and in the trade talks.

Livestock producers in Nebraska need research into a number of disease problems, better feeding procedures and more knowledge about the art of raising cattle on grass.

We as a state are desperately short of large animal veterinarians to treat cattle, horses, pigs and dairy animals. It seems everyone wants to be a cat and dog doctor with regular hours.

The critical need at the moment, however, is an expanded diagnostic laboratory for the veterinarians to send samples to for examination.

A fair-sized squabble has developed between the veterinarians at the University of Nebraska and those out in the country over the priorities set by the University.

The University people dream of establishing a vet school, which we certainly need but probably can't afford for some time. They would like to see us develop research facilities that could be eventually expanded in that direction.

The practicing vets agree that research is needed but insist that they need a new diagnostic lab today. At the present time, all samples have to be sent to South Dakota, Colorado, Iowa State, or Wyoming if they can't be handled at the antiquated facility in Lincoln or at the limited facility at North Platte.

The limited facility now available does what it can without charging the local vet or the farmer. The veterinarians suggest that a fee large enough to cover most of the cost be charged, but the University has ducked the idea because of the bookkeeping headaches that would accompany the fee system.

It seems to me that the lab is the first need, and the vet school is the second need, and the vet school is a real need, but one we work toward as we build diagnostic and research facilities.

I also feel that a substantial portion of the as-yet-unused revenue sharing funds should be allocated for a building program, following the priorities listed above and in that specific order.

Clay Center — A round-up of the latest research on calving difficulty and reproductive efficiency will be one of several updates on beef cattle research presented during the 1973 U.S.

Meat Animal Research Center (MARC) Beef Field Day here Saturday.

Research physiologist Dr. Dan Laster will review studies on factors affecting calving difficulty, the effects of calving difficulty on calf mortality and rebreeding after calving, the effects of weaning the calf prior to breeding on the cow's reproduction and experiments on induced twinning.

"Calving difficulty is a major problem to the beef cattle industry, and it has received more attention from cattlemen with the increased utilization of larger sire breeds," Laster comments.

The effect of calf birth weight, calf sex, dam age, dam breed and sire breed on calving difficulty was studied in 1,872 calvings at MARC, Laster reports. Calves were sired by Hereford, Angus, Jersey, South Devon, Limousin, Simmental

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplante

San Francisco — The merry month of May: "Morning fog," says the weather report. "Clearing later." (The weather man is describing me?)

It is the month of romantic love. (Romantic love is what Women's Lib is against, huh.) Boy Meets Girl and that's what it's all about.

The love thing grew up in the Age of Chivalry. Knights in armor developed a code of conduct: "How now, Fair Knight, wouldst thou joust with me?" You read it in youthful years. I read it. I loved that King Arthur stuff. Now is sounds like two blokes picking a barroom brawl: "You wanna fight here? Or go outside?"

The knights of that day fought each other with a complicated set of rules.

Love came about because these tin-suited dudes had to have something to lash them into action.

One juicer was rescuing fair maidens. They rescued them from bad knights and from fire-breathing dragons. When they fought each other, a fair maiden tossed out her scarf.

The knight wrapped this around his arm. He became a tiger.

This came to the notice of the troubadours. (As every song writer knows, it's a beast to find new material.)

The troubadours wrote songs about these rescues — the four-alarm fire dragon and the badass knight. And they called it love.

Love didn't come about until the year 1150, mainly because nobody had ever thought about it that way. They hadn't put candlelight and wine around it.

If you want to put this in perspective, the chair was invented in 1490 — Columbus just barely had time to sit down and think it over before he said, "Sail on!"

The subject of love has been studied — you can get a foundation grant for just about everything these everloving days.

Year 1150 is when poets started writing about it. Before that they wrote war poems — "thinking up tales of blood and slaughter."

They made war poems, not love poems.

Then they got the idea. Now love poems fill two full pages in Bartlett's Familiar Quotations. (Women's Lib should burn that book.)

It's a young man's game. Get in and get out early. ("You haven't taken me dancing since we were married!" she cried.) No harm though in studying it.

The famous lovers of history started so young, they'd be in juvenile today. Helen was 12 when Paris took her to Troy and started the fuss with Greece.

Achilles was 15 when he began breathing deeply over Deidamia. (They did not know it was Love, since Love had not been invented. The poets hung it on them later.)

The first recorded lovers of the Age of Romantic Love was Abelard and Heloise. The first authentic candle-light and wine and spaghetti kids. (If you follow this up, see what happened to Abelard. Man, it was hardly worth it.)

This is how love developed. Filling TV commercials with men swooning over chicks who use a roll-on that is safe all day. Bringing riches to the flower stores.

Money to the candy store.

Therefore you rise from your chair invented in 1490 to honor an idea invented in 1150.

All leading to complicated things like opening car doors for chicks. Last out of the elevator while being spiked by high heels.

A joy to the social pages, somewhere between The Bomb and the Comic Page.

Fuel Cells For Electricity Being Planned

Rosemead, Calif. (UPI) — Fuel cells powerful enough to supply the electrical needs of sizable communities are now around the corner, Southern California Edison Co. said.

The company has invested $7.5 million in a fuel cell research project being carried by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Corp. of Hartford, Conn., to develop such units by the end of this decade. The fuel cells would make electricity by direct chemical reaction from kerosene or natural gas.

NEXT WEEK WITH:

MAY 7-13

This week is lilac-scented.

Fruit trees blossom now... Mother's Day May 13... First quarter of the Moon May 9... These nights are lighted by fire flies... Average length of days for week, 14 hours, 26 minutes... Rain on the 8th means a wet harvest... Two-thirds of U.S. tornadoes occur this month... skunks born now... Germany surrendered May 8, 1945... Once uttered, words run faster than horses.

Old Farmer's Riddle: What country are children happiest in? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: What is the "youngest" antique sold these days and how young can one be? And I mean aside from automobiles which, as I understand, can be officially "antique" at age 30. J. A. S., Baltimore.

You don't talk about "young" antiques. If they are less than a century in age, they are "period pieces." If over, it depends on what country you are in. Nothing is antique in Scandinavia if it is less than 500 years old.

Home Hint: To remove grease spots from carpeting, brush in baking soda, leave overnight and then vacuum... Apply a half-and-half mixture of turpentine and ammonia to remove hardened paint stains from clothing... Liddle answer, Lapland.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Monday

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Study contracts, agreements, partnership proposals. You are certain course may be a bit off base. Know it and act accordingly. Taurus, Libra persons are featured. You are able to get to bottom of mystery.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Hold off on short trips, if practical. Directions change and messages could go astray. Be sure you know what you want before embarking on quest. Relatives may have doubts they are not expressing. Ask questions — obtain answers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be prepared for overtime task, assignment. You get more money and the responsibility to go with it. Older person, probably a Capricorn, figures prominently. Keep track of credits/debits. Look out for your own interests.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Money situation is activated. Study Gemini message. What was stifled, delayed gets moving in unorthodox fashion. Cycle is such that you can make right play at right time. Finish what you start.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Highlight originality, independence. Strive to express yourself. Steer clear of one who constantly complains. You have a right to laugh. If close associate claims you are not serious, then so be it. Important to be pleased with your own efforts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Some of your friends, associates seem intent on getting involved in Bizarre situations. Be above petty foolishness. Keep eye on ultimate goal. One who can do much for you is now a close, careful observer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Experiment. Strive for greater freedom of movement. Flexibility now could be a key to progress. Sagittarius is likely to play important role. Reach beyond what appears to be a limitation. Read and learn then apply knowledge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Lunar aspect points up need to seek information in out-of-way places. Obtain valid hint from Libra message. Emphasis is in special study; gain through written word. Schedule program of rebuilding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Accent is on change travel, variety plus in intensified relationship with member of opposite sex. You communicate. You feel needs of others. You impress special person with what you want — personal magnetism flows.

son with what you want — personal magnetism flows.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Money flow can increase due to professional contact. Means business relationship could prove fruitful. But don't expect something for nothing. Fair trade is key.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Look beyond the obvious. Someone may be trying to pull proverbial wool over your eyes. Check with Pisces. See in light of actuality. Select quality. Bargain-basement items may not suit your needs. Choose quality.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Behind scenes maneuver may affect your assets. Be aware. Take nothing for granted where money is concerned. Double play could be under way and you will have to be a good feller.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are basically introspective, not easy to please but just as hard on yourself as you can be on others. You draw to you many persons born under Pisces. You make changes this year which involve travel and special relationship. December could be one of your most important months of 1973.

The Turn of the Century...

When Traditions Were Born.

Around the turn of the century in Lincoln, this Havlock streetcar marked the beginning of a new era in public transportation.

Yes, the city was growing. The 1900's in Lincoln were prosperous times, as new businesses were opening their doors.

Roper & Sons Mortuary was one of these turn-of-the-century businesses. In 1901, Roper & Sons began their tradition of thoughtful service to Lincoln and Lancaster County families. Today, this tradition of service is their trademark.

Bride At An Evening Ceremony

At a 7 o'clock ceremony which was solemnized on Saturday evening, May 5, the marriage of Miss Jeannie Louise Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Simmons of Englewood, Colo., to Keith D. Wortman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Wortman of Anaheim, Calif., took place at Sheridan Lutheran Church. The Rev. Robert Berthelsen read the lines of the service.

Mrs. Robert Roberts of Englewood, Colo. and Mrs. Scott Rose of Omaha, both sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Kim Wortman of La Mirada, Calif. were bridesmaids and the threesome of bridesmaids included Miss Linda Jones and Miss Cathy Eyth, both of Beatrice, and Miss Mary Jane Dyer of Dallas, Tex.

Kim Wortman served his brother as best man, and the corps of groomsmen included Carl Johnson of Phoenix, Ariz., Bob Newton of Chicago, Ill., Jerry Tagge of Green Bay, Wis., Dave Tollefson of Alhambra, Calif., and Scott Rose of Omaha. Van Brownson and Steve Runtz seated the guests.

While voile over satin fashioned the gown chosen by the bride for her wedding. The fitted bodice featured ruffling at the high neckline and at the cuffs of the Bishop sleeves. Beneath the natural waistline, the softly gathered skirt extended into a chapel-length train. Her gown was completed with a ruffled pinaflore fashioned of cotton eyelet accented with an embroidered floral design in the red and blue shades. A modified bandeau of Venice lace held in place her tiered waist-length veil, and she carried an arrangement of crimson Baccara roses, lilies of the valley and gypsophila.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will reside in Green Bay, Wis., where Mr. Wortman plays with the Green Bay Packers during the professional football season.

The bride was graduated from the University of Nebraska where she is affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and she presently is a stewardess with United Air Line. Mr. Wortman is completing work on his Bachelors' degree in biological sciences, and he also is a coaching assistant with the University of Nebraska football team of which he formerly was a member.

MISS DEBORAH WHITE

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. John Votupka of Fairmont of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Deborah, to Richard R. Hoarty, son of Mrs. Mary Hoarty of Grafton.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, June 9, and the ceremony will be solemnized at St. Helena's Catholic Church in Grafton.

Miss Votupka is attending the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in home economics.

Mr. Hoarty is engaged in farming near Grafton.

Unicameral Luncheon

The members of the Unicameral Club will have a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the Omaha Press Club on Monday afternoon, May 7.

Mrs. Otilia Chapman of Omaha will present a demonstration of Ikebana — the art of Japanese floral arrangements — following the luncheon.

Hostesses for the event will be Mrs. James Dickinson of Millard, Mrs. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, and Mrs. Bob Murphy of South Sioux City.

MISS SHERRYL SETLIK

This morning the engagement of Miss Sherryl Marie Setlik, daughter of Mrs. Leonard Setlik of Payton, and the late Mr. Setlik, to Larry Robert Chamberlain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chamberlain of Eagle, is announced by the bride-elect's mother.

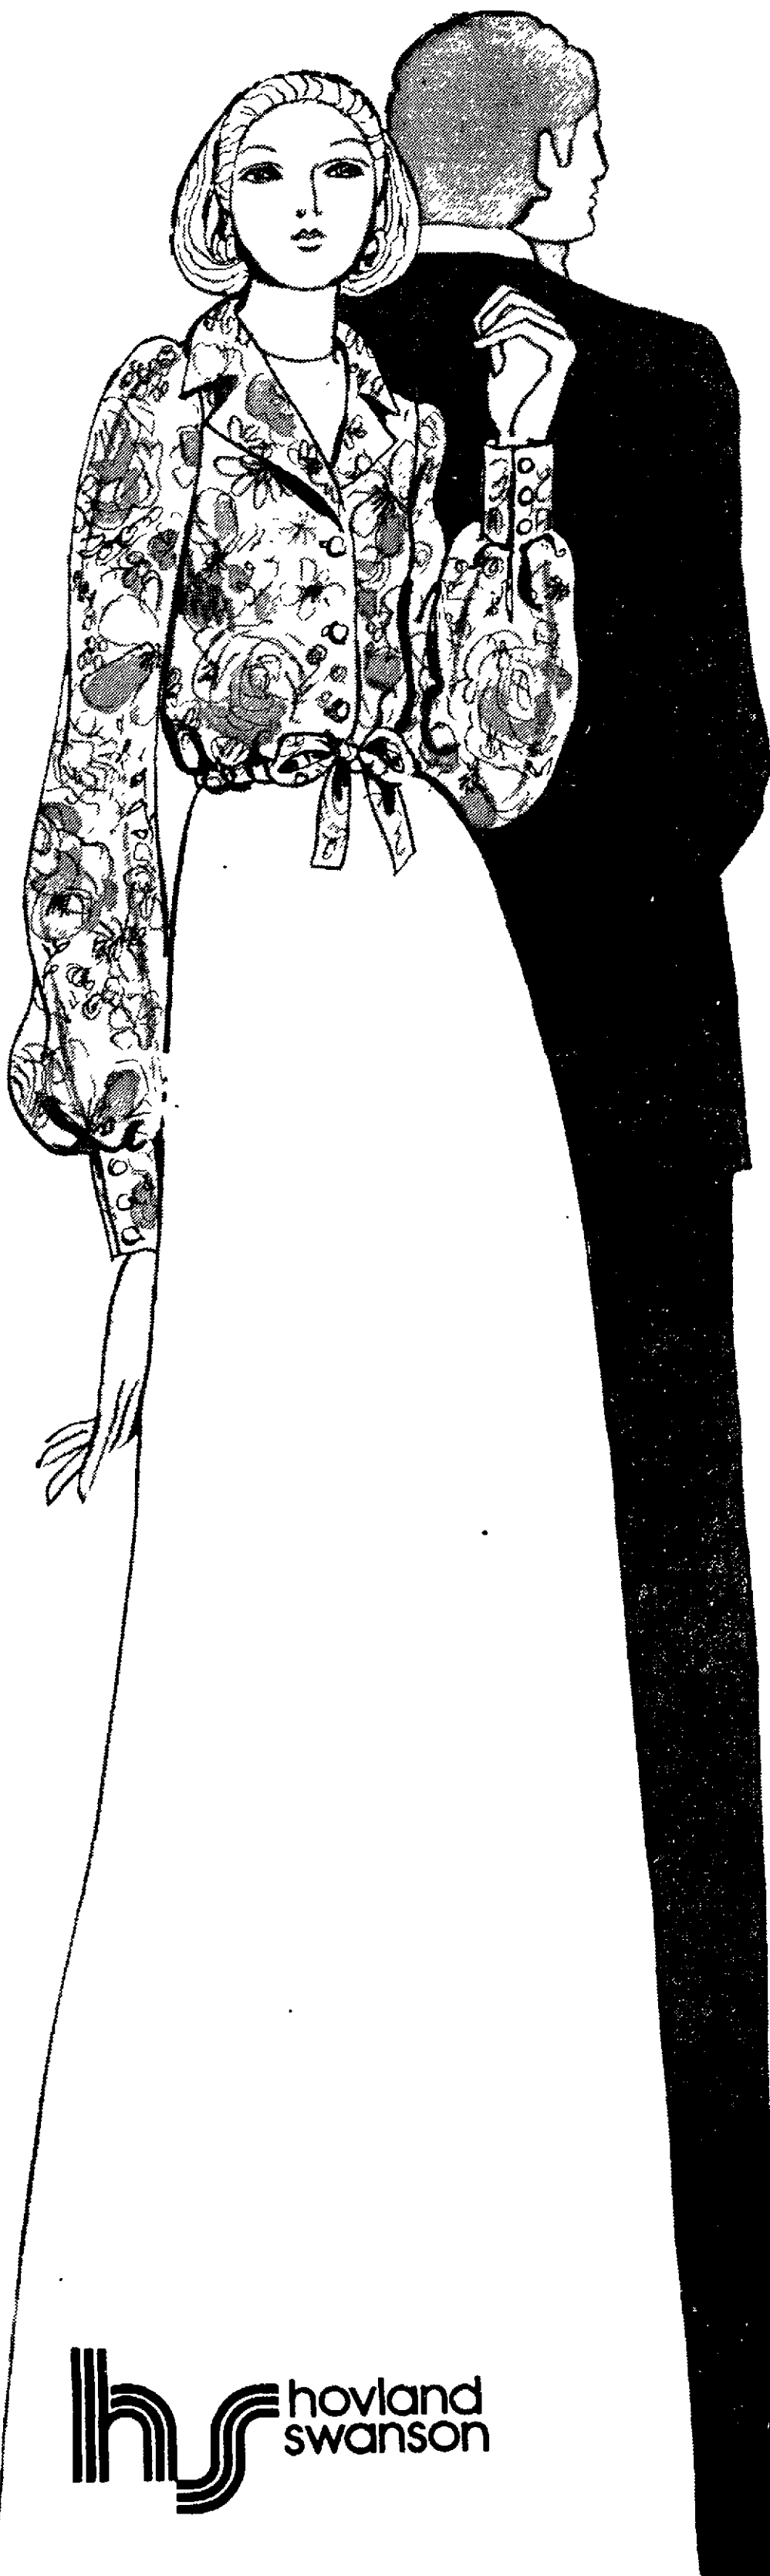

Saturday, July 21, is named as the wedding date.

Miss Setlik is a graduate of the Grand Island School of Business, and now is careering at Miller and Paine's in Lincoln.

Mr. Chamberlain, who has completed a tour of duty with the U.S. Navy, is a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University. He now is associated with the Cushman Motors Co.

ABBY: let well enough alone

DEAR ABBY: I am a Catholic widow married to a good Catholic widower. The problem is he won't let me into our bedroom while he's dressing or undressing. And if he's in the room while I'm undressing he turns his head. He acts as if it's sinful for us to see each other undressed.

I thought maybe time would improve the situation, but it has been years and he's still the same.

Why attempt to play an acoustic guitar with a new finger pick when you can play with five fingers! It is actually easier! And you won't need other instrument accompaniment to sound complete. Learn correctly, it costs no more. THOMSEN MUSIC 2641 No. 48th • Uni Place 434-8375 Open Tonight

I must admit that our sex life is wonderful — in the dark. This may not seem like much of a problem but it makes me feel less of a wife, and I am hurt.

What is the official Catholic position on nudity, Abby? Perhaps the reason for my husband's attitude can be found there.

DEAR FRUSTRATED: There is no Catholic doctrine on nudity. Nudity is the natural state and is so regarded in matrimonial affairs. You can't blame your husband's inhibited attitude on his religious upbringing. Leave well enough alone, lady. You're doing well where it counts.

DEAR ABBY: We're a couple of old goats. My husband is 72 and I'm 70. We're not in the best of health but we're not feeble or senile (I hope), and the Lord willing, we will celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary in June.

We want to give a dinner party ourselves and invite our friends, relatives and a few neighbors, but our married daughter and son won't hear of it. THEY want to give the party and foot the bill.

Abby, we appreciate what the kids want to do, but they both have families and need their money. We want printed invitations with a line on the bottom, "No gifts please." The kids are having a fit and say "You just don't do that." (Abby, we don't need anything!) We don't want to make tackasses of ourselves, but at our stage in life we don't want more things. Help, please.

MIDWEST READER DEAR READER: Let the kids give the party, and don't suggest, "no gifts."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAITING TO GET EVEN" IN HUNTSVILLE, ALA. Of all the virtues, being able to forgive and forget will do the most for you.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

MISS ELIZABETH BLACKFORD

Of much more than casual interest to Lincoln is news of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Jean Blackford, daughter of Mrs. Henry J. Blackford, Jr., of Spartanburg, S.C., and the late Mr. Blackford, to Roger Steven Refschauge, son of Mrs. Elmer E. Refschauge, and the late Mr. Refschauge, which is announced this morning by the bride-elect's mother.

The wedding will take place at high noon on Saturday, July 14, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Episcopal Church of the Advent in Spartanburg.

Miss Blackford is a graduate of Foxcroft School in Middleburg, Va., and of Connecticut College, New London, Conn. She now is a student at the University of South Carolina Graduate School of psychology. Miss Blackford was presented as a debutante at the Saint Cecilia Ball in Charleston, S.C.

Mr. Refschauge attended Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., and Westminster College in Fulton, Mo., where he is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He received his degree from the University of Nebraska and now is associated with the First Realty of Lincoln, Inc.

Betrothal

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hartsell make announcement this morning of the engagement of their daughter, Karen Jean, to Kenneth Ray Ostlund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ostlund of Lexington.

An August wedding is planned.

Miss Hartsell will be graduated from Lincoln High School this spring.

Mr. Ostlund has attended the University of Nebraska and now is with Cushman Motors.

Programs Planned

Around The Town

It would take two or three columns of space to keep up with Lincoln this week — There are parties — and parties — and more parties — And then there is Harold Schonberg of New York Times music critic fame, who made a tremendous impression upon music — and art — circles in Lincoln. From Lincoln Mr. Schonberg, plus two or three planes filled with Lincoln people, went to Hyannis to charm more music lovers at a music festival. It is to be hoped that Mr. Schonberg enjoyed Lincoln as much as Lincoln enjoyed him.

MISS LINDA PRATHER

Of interest to town and campus circles this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Prather of Belpre, Ohio, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Sue, to Michael Holtgrewe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Holtgrewe.

The wedding is planned for Sunday afternoon, July 1, and the 2:30 o'clock ceremony will be solemnized at the Belpre Congregational Church of Christ.

Miss Prather will be graduated in June from the Capital University in Columbus, Ohio, from where she will receive a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing.

Mr. Holtgrewe is attending the University of Nebraska, and upon his graduation will attend the University of Nebraska College of Medicine.

Activity seems to be floating through the air with the greatest of ease in other places than Lincoln — although Lincoln does play rather an important role in what we have in mind at the moment.

Next Wednesday evening President Philip Heckman of Doane College, and Mrs. Heckman, will be entertaining at dinner at their home in Crete next Wednesday evening, and the honored guest is from Lincoln — Mark T. Seacrest who has been named to the Doane College board.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Seacrest Lincoln guests will be Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor Greer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dobson.

But yesterday — Sunday — there was quite a celebration in Lincoln. On Sunday Mrs. Fannie Benda, formerly of Wymore, was 98 years young, and honoring the birthday celebrant were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bower.

The party was an open house between the hours of 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bower. And just as a memory refresher, in case one is needed, Mrs. Benda is the mother of Mrs. Sidney Anderson.

Now a word about the Bowers — They are former Lincoln residents who returned 'home' just a few months ago. The 30 years between then and now were spent in Santa Ana, Calif.

Black-Tie Party Honors Official Staff

All private clubs are noted for their service to members—One dines, dances, plays bridge, meets a friend for lunch, and participates in all of the special, and at time spectacular activities which the club manager plans for the club members.

The Lincoln University Club is one of those private clubs and, under the guidance of its manager, S.R. Haddal, offers all of the aforesaid services.

But Mr. Haddal believes that a private club should do more than strive to please its members. A private club, according to Mr. Haddal, is part of the community, and therefore should contribute to the community. He practices what he preaches.

Not too many months ago Mr. Haddal and his top chef organized a six weeks course in cuisine specialties and fine wine. The classes were a great success and not one of the participants begrudged the $25.00 fee, nor did the club begrudge the materials it furnished for the classes.

The result? One thousand dollars was presented to the Nebraska Art Association.

And now Mr. Haddal has another project. This time it is a six weeks course which involves wine—how, when and where to use it, and which wine should be served with which foods. The proceeds will go into a scholarship for the Lincoln Technical College.

Every moment isn't spent in study or work at the University Club, however. Last Thursday evening the new and retiring officers and board members of the club were honored at a black tie dinner—at the University Club, naturally.

The club's new official staff for the coming year includes James Nissen, president; Larry Conneally, vice-president; Henry Albers, treasurer and Richard Wadlow, secretary. The new board members are Dr. Duane Hunt, Norman Krivosha and David Pierson.

Pre-audition Jitters

Call it stage fright, excessive desire or whatever, there were many nervous youngsters at the Birdcage Theater on Saturday afternoon, May 5.

No matter how well-prepared the routines had been, performing them on-stage, with not only mothers, but also judges looking on, was just more than many of the children could handle.

You see, being accepted to participate in the theater's productions at the Lincoln Children's Zoo this summer was important to each and every one of them.

And all that brought about a great deal of havoc backstage while members of the Junior Woman's Club of Lincoln were conducting auditions for the shows which will be held at 1:30 and 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday afternoons from Memorial Day through Labor Day. Co-chairmen of the JWC Birdcage Theater project are Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. Ted Kessner.

A variety of talent was displayed on the Birdcage stage as actors of all ages tried their hands at skits, pantomime, guitar, dance, and baton performances, but meanwhile, those awaiting their turns continued to reveal extreme cases of 'the jitters.'

The bidding:

Opening lead - eight of clubs.

Some contracts fail solely because the wrong hand becomes declarer, but at least some of them can be saved by anticipating this possibility and dealing effectively with it.

Consider this deal from the Great Britain-U.S. match in 1962. When the Americans were North-South, the bidding went as shown.

It does seem that North should have been more aggressive after South first jump-shifted in spades and then leaped again in spades. 820 points on the deal.

Presumably South was announcing an independent suit as well as interest in a slam, and on that basis North surely had the values for at least one more bid. His was not a minimum opening bid.

However, had North carried on to six spades, South would have gone down one due to the unfortunate lie of the clubs.

The odds against East's having the A-Q were about 3 to 1, and if South had wound up in six spades down one, he would have had just cause for complaint. Actually, the American South made five spades and scored 650 points.

When Friday and Truscott were North-South for Britain, the bidding went:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♦	Pass	2♠
Pass	3♥	Pass	4♠
Pass	4NT	Pass	5♦
Pass	6NT

This contract could not be stopped when Friday, after inquiring for aces with Blackwood, contracted for six notrump. Played from the North seat, the slam was unbeatable, and when East chose a spade as his opening lead, Friday made all 13 tricks for a score of 1,470 points.

The British team thus gained 820 points on the deal.

Linemen Work With Wires

Seemingly possessed with the agile ability of one of Edgar Rice Burroughs' great apes, a telephone lineman is not a misplaced Tarzan scampering up poles or swinging from line to line in a space age jungle of wires.

As well as installing that shiny new telephone on your wall, a lineman must also be a highly trained technician who works both above ground, on the ground and underground, installing main and trunk lines and performing maintenance duties.

As most of these pictures imply, a good deal of the work of a telephone lineman takes place high above the ground.

Since major telephone cable trunk lines are pressurized with about six to seven pounds of dry air to keep moisture from seeping in, a lineman must check the pressure wherever he goes to make sure there has not been a leak.

Inside tents hung over major cables, linemen splice a branch line into the main line to service a new subdivision in east Lincoln. The tents keep the rain or bright sun off their work and the wind out of their faces.

Down a manhole two more linemen do the same work, but underground. This time it is to extend sufficient service for several new apartment complexes nearing completion in the central part of Lincoln.

The apartments replaced a few older houses that needed only a few telephones. So with the dramatic rise in demand for telephone service, a new branch cable must be spliced in.

At the same time, another crew of linemen labor to string a "1,200-pair cable" from 13th and A to Folsom and A. This is to meet the demands for increased telephone service in West Lincoln.

A 1,200-pair cable means that there are 2,400 strands of wire in the cable. With two strands for each telephone, that means 1,200 new telephones can be installed.

The first step to install an overhead cable line is to stretch a steel supporting cable, called a messenger, from pole to pole under just the right amount of tension.

The next step is to string a cable with the many hundreds of strands of wire underneath the steel supporting cable.

The final step is to use a device called a "spinner" that winds two strands of wire around the steel supporting cable and the telephone cable.

The spinner, shown in one of the pictures here, is pulled from the ground by the same truck with the bucket holding the spinner operator. The spinner operator is in voice communications with the driver of the truck so the whole operation can be smoothly executed.

Not all telephone cables are 1,200 pair cables. Some have as many as 7,200 strands enough to service 3,600 telephones.

The linemen admitted that it can be quite a job to put a cable of that complexity back together if a construction company's backhoe should accidentally sever it.

For most people, reading a newspaper is an indispensable part of everyday life. 77% of us, 18 and over, read a newspaper on the average weekday, according to a recent nationwide study by Audits & Surveys, Inc.

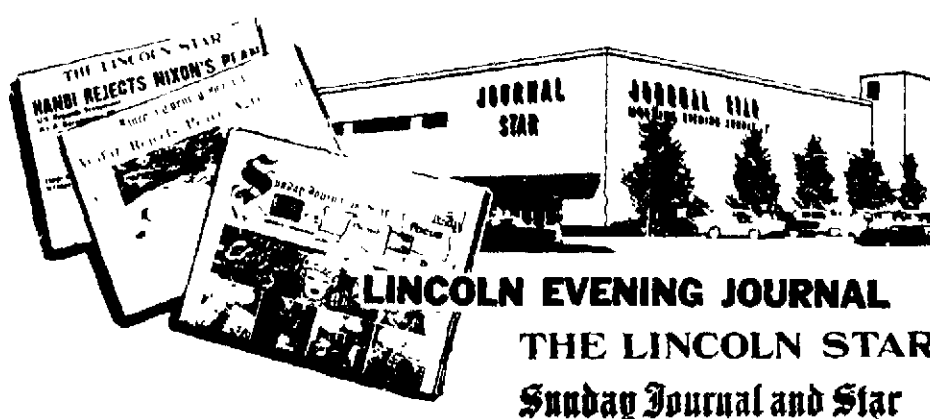

And newspaper reading is such an ingrained habit that over a five day period, 89% of us read at least one newspaper and the average reader sees 4.3 issues. In other words, just about every one of us reads the newspaper just about every day.

On the average we spend 30 to 40 minutes with each paper we read, and we go through it so thoroughly that we open and read something on 84% of the pages.

We get involved with the newspaper, too. We quote from it, write letters to it, clip articles and ads out of it, buy things by mail on its say-so, and talk about what we've read in it. 93% of all readers have done these things at one time or another. Just about everybody.

So if you're an advertiser and your problem is to find a sure way to reach everybody every day, you've got the answer in hand. The daily newspaper.

No Fanfare

Omaha — There was no fanfare and no applause. Few, if any, of the 14,117 opening-day fans at Ak-Sar-Ben last Tuesday realized that May 1 was "comeback day" for Fred Ecoffey.

The veteran rider who is the perennial jockey champion at the outstate Nebraska race tracks, made his first appearance on a track since suffering a broken collarbone in a spill at Grand Island's Fonner Park.

Fred Ecoffey

Ecoffey was aboard the 2-1 favorite Do Wacky in the fourth race on March 27 when his mount clipped the heels of another horse on the far turn of the 6-furlong chase and threw him to the ground. Ecoffey said he knew the collarbone was broken as the attending physician at the track told him.

Back Home

After spending four days at a Grand Island hospital, Ecoffey spent the next month recuperating at his home in Wounded Knee, S.D. During that time, Ken Jones, who finished behind Ecoffey several times before in the Fonner jockey standings, snapped Ecoffey's five-year domination of the Third City riding title.

"I really didn't care so much about losing the title as I did getting better," he said. "I've never won up here (Ak-Sar-Ben), so I guess this is the one I really want."

"But Lively (J. L., who is aiming for a third straight Omaha championship) is probably the one who'll win. And Al Herrera might be up there, too."

Although Ecoffey admitted he was not in the best physical shape during his five-week absence from racing, he said he weighed about his norm (114 pounds).

As serious as his recent mishap was, it does not rank as the worst accident to have afflicted the 35-year-old rider. He was sidelined for seven weeks with a broken left ankle sustained at Fonner during 1966. And he suffered a broken pelvis when a horse jumped the rail and landed on him during the 1964 racing season at Atokad Park in South Sioux City.

"With all those injuries, I was never really worried about being able to ride again," the 15-year veteran of the Nebraska racing circuit said. "They were real painful, but I knew I could come back."

Despite his success in Nebraska, Ecoffey said he has no interest in attempting to campaign in the "big-time" of horse racing such as New York, southern California or Florida.

"It's close to home in Nebraska and that's where I want to ride," he said.

His initial day back was not a success. He finished 12th on two horses, 11th on one and 10th on another, and 9th on one. His best finish was a fourth aboard Pro Raja in Ak-Sar-Ben's Inaugural Handicap.

It was not an auspicious debut. But for Fred Ecoffey it was a return to racing and that's all that really matters.

McKeone Ties For State Lead

By RANDY YORK

During basketball season, Cozad coach Bill Ramsay was known for talking at length about Kert McKeone's shooting and rebounding ability.

McKeone's shooting ability was unquestioned, almost 65 per cent. But rebounding can be a misleading statistic.

Could the 6-4 McKeone compete well on the boards with anyone?

Ramsay, also Cozad's head track coach, shouldn't have to expound on McKeone's athletic virtues any more.

And Walt Harris, the South coach for this summer's Nebraska Coaches Association all-star basketball game, can rest assured McKeone, the Class B all-stater, can jump

The track charts are expected to undergo more changes this week with district competition at all levels.

More than 6,000 athletes will compete at 28 sites. They include:

Wednesday — Class B at Plattsmouth, Class C at Dodge College, Crete and Lexington, Class D at Central City and Ogallala.
Thursday — Class A at Millard, Class B at Plattsmouth, Seward, Lexington and Nebraska Western, Scottsbluff, Class C at North Bend, Wisner, Norfolk, Plainville and McCook, Class D at Fairbury, Jr. College and at Lexington, Wisner and Atkinson West Holt.
Friday — Class A at Lincoln East, Ralston and Grand Island, Class B at Fairbury Jr. College, Class C at Central City and Nebraska Western, Class D at Wisner and Atkinson West Holt.

Secretariat Termed 'Another Man O' War'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The backstretch at Churchill Downs was still breathless Sunday morning after Secretariat's clock-shattering victory in the 99th Kentucky Derby.

His rivals in the race were calling him a super horse and one trainer said he might be another Man O' War. Almost none of them wanted any part of him in the Preakness, two weeks from now.

"To tell you the truth, I'd rather just duck Secretariat from now on," said George Handy.

whose Impecunious missed the Derby because of ankle problems.

"If he's going to Baltimore for the Preakness, I'm going to New Jersey, maybe for the Jersey Derby," Handy said. "He could be another Man O' War."

Trainer Frank Martin, whose Sham finished second in America's most famous race, wasn't at his barn. But his stable hands said they understood he might try the Preakness, perhaps with a three-horse entry.

Our Native, the third finisher, also could go in the second jewel of the Triple Crown, trainer Bill Resseguet said.

"We're going to Chicago this morning and weigh it all out. I want to get my troops together and then I'll decide whether to go to Baltimore or not," he added.

But Resseguet, whose colt finished more than eight lengths behind Secretariat, said he's "not afraid of the big horse."

The rest of the trainers were unanimous in their decisions to race wherever Secretariat isn't.

The morning after his record 1:59 2/5 clocking for the 1 1/4-mile Derby, Secretariat's trainer, Lucien Laurin, wasn't at the barn. Jockey Ron Turcotte explained that the trainer's wife was feeling ill and they had returned to Florida.

Turcotte, smiling despite a headache, was still giggling over the rumors of lameness that cropped up just before the Derby. There had been whispers that Secretariat had bad knee problems.

"If he's got bad knees, then I'm a cripple," the Canadian jockey said.

"I told some guy in the jockey room after the race that if the horse was sound he would have run it in 1:56. I guess," he laughed.

Turcotte said the closest thing to an appearance of soreness with Secretariat is the way he starts every race.

"All Bold Rulers do that. They look like they're kind of stiff when they come out of the gate," Turcotte said.

But the show put on by the Meadow Stable color-bearer in the stretch run made believers of plenty of trainers. It means the Preakness should have a very small field.

Already at Pimlico prepping for that 1 3/16 mile race are a few challengers—Stop The Music, Step Nicely and Aljumin—but Secretariat's plane ride from Churchill Downs will be a lonely one.

... WEST INJURED

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers is the leading scorer in National Basketball Association playoff history and the top point producer in this season's final playoff series against the New York Knicks.

The Lakers didn't have him when they needed him most Sunday, during an 87-83 loss to the Knicks in their nationally televised game.

West was sidelined the entire fourth quarter with a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg and was considered a doubtful starter for Tuesday's fourth game in the best-of-seven series, which New York leads 2-1.

The injury-prone West was hurt in the third quarter when he tried to cut sharply to his right and felt the muscle pop.

He finished the period, but didn't come back for the critical fourth period.

If he had only one leg to play on, I would have used him, said Lakers' Coach Bill Sharman. But both his legs are hurting now.

West had injured the hamstring in his left leg during the second game of the series.

"I didn't want to gamble on possibly losing him for the rest of the series by putting him back in," explained Sharman.

Dr. Robert Kerlan, the Lakers' team physician, said West would undergo heat treatments, massage and stretching exercises in an effort to be ready for Tuesday's game.

"I hope he'll be ready," said Kerlan, "but a decision won't be made until game time."

West led both teams in scoring in the first half with 15 points but finished the game with only 16. He had averaged 28 points per game through the first two contests of the series.

Willis Reed with 22 points and Earl Monroe with 21 keyed the Knicks' offense.

The Lakers' total of 83 points was their lowest in their playoff history. Their previous low was 88 against the Boston Celtics in an 89-88 setback on April 29, 1969.

The game's drama unfolded in the closing minutes when the Lakers cut a New York lead of 10 points early in the fourth period to only two 85-83, on Keith Erickson's layup with 55 seconds remaining.

Pearson Wins Winston 500

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — David Pearson rode a Mercury to an easy victory in the Winston 500-mile stock car race Sunday after a frightening, high-speed crash eliminated three of his chief rivals and 15 of the original 60 starters.

Pearson, 38, a cool-headed veteran of 15 years as a pro, managed to work his way through the wreckage left from the 190 miles per hour pileup and came home a full lap ahead of Chevrolet-driving Donnie Allison on the 2.66-mile Alabama International Speedway.

Montreal's 'Perfect Game' Downs Black Hawks, 4-0

CHICAGO (AP) — "This doesn't happen very often, but they played a perfect game and there's not much you can do about that," said coach Bill Reay after his Chicago Black Hawks had been overpowered by the whirling Montreal Canadiens 4-0 in their Stanley Cup playoff series Sunday.

Second-period goals by Yvan Cournoyer and Chuck LeFley in a span of 90 seconds backed the first playoff shutout by goalie Ken Dryden to give the Canadiens a 3-1 lead in the best of seven series.

The Canadians can wrap up their 18th Stanley Cup Tuesday night in Montreal, where the Black Hawks have not won a playoff game in 13 attempts dating back to 1962.

"If you can't score, you can't win," said Reay. "But not only the Black Hawks, they could have whipped any team."

"It isn't often that you get everybody moving on a club the way they did. I don't think they had a single weakness out there."

Dryden, the Vezina Trophy winner, had the distinction of handing the Hawks their first shutout in 69 playoff games dating back to a 1966 series against Detroit.

"We checked very well both ways," said Dryden. "And they got very few chances."

Dryden had to save on only 19 shots as the Canadians played as magnificently on defense as they did on offense.

Giants Ignore Brawl To Topple Cubs, 11-9

By The Associated Press
Bobby Bonds' two-out, two-run homer in the 12th inning lifted the San Francisco Giants to an 11-9 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the opener of a National League doubleheader marred by a free-swinging brawl Sunday afternoon.

Chris Speier drove in two runs with a triple and a single as the Giants completed a sweep of the doubleheader with a 4-3 triumph in the nightcap.

Two flareups erupted in the bottom of the fourth inning when the Giants scored five runs and four players were ejected for their part in the brawl. Both arguments occurred with San Francisco starter Jim Barr at the plate. A pitch from the Cubs' Milt Pappas was tossed behind Barr for a wild pitch and allowed Dave Rader to score all the way from first while both benches emptied and angered players hooded onto the field.

Pappas then hit Barr with another pitch, setting off a fight in which Cubs coach Pete Reiser was struck in the head and was carried off on a stretcher to St. Luke's Hospital for x-rays. Chicago Manager Whitey Lockman, coach Hank Aguirre and both starting pitchers were ejected.

In other National League contests it was Atlanta 3, Philadelphia 1, Houston 14, New York 8, Cincinnati 6, Montreal 1, San Diego 8, Pittsburgh 0 and Los Angeles 3, St. Louis 0.

American League results were Texas 7, Detroit 2, Milwaukee 3, Kansas City 2, Chicago 11, New York 2, Baltimore 5, California 0, Minnesota 10, Boston 3 and Oakland 7-3 and 12-0 over Cleveland in a doubleheader.

Bob Watson erased a Mets lead with a three-run homer in the sixth and Lee May's grandstand highlighted a seven-run eruption in the seventh that carried the Astros to victory.

Johnny Bench and Dave Concepcion backed Roger Nelson's eight-hit pitching with six homers as the Reds broke open a tight game with three runs in the sixth.

Mike Caldwell surrendered only two hits as the Padres unloaded 16 hits including homers by John Grubb and Clarence Gaston for their second straight victory over the Pirates.

The Dodgers' Joe Ferguson laced his sixth homer and Al Downing handcuffed the Cardinals two hits.

Marty Perez and pitcher Garv Gentry received base-loaded walks with two out off reliever Billy Watson and gave the Braves their victory.

Solo homers by Darrell Porter and Johnny Briggs supported Jerry Bell's four-hit pitching that lifted the Brewers past the Royals. Porter, who had only one hit in his previous 13 times at bat, snapped a 2-2 deadlock in the eighth when he walloped Dirk Dragos pitch into the right-center field bleachers for his second homer of the season.

Wilbur Wood became the season's first seven-game winner and Bill Melton drove in four runs as the White Sox recorded their ninth consecutive triumph, the longest winning streak in the American league this year and best for Chicago since 1967.

Bill Hands scattered 10 hits while Bobby Darwin, Larry Hise and Joe Lis hit homers, highlighting a 14-hit Minnesota barrage.

Toby Harris and Alex Johnson knocked in all the Ranger runs and Rick Land 2-1 allowed eight hits as Texas romped over the Tigers.

The Orioles took advantage of Nolan Ryan's wildness and California miscue to score four of their five runs against the Rich Coggins single. Baltimore's lone hit through the first six innings three walks and an infield out gave the Orioles two runs in the opening inning.

Deron Johnson, Gene Tenace and Sal Bando belted homers for the A's in the first game. Ken Holtzman scattered five hits in the opener as Oakland unleashed an 18-hit attack, including Joe Rudi's fourth homer.

Rankin Wins Raleigh Golf

RALEIGH (AP) — Judy Rankin watched her opposition fade away Sunday and won the $4,500 first prize in the LPGA Raleigh Golf Classic with a one-over-par 217.

Mrs. Rankin playing a "steady round," had an even-par 72 over the 6,300-yard Raleigh Country Club course.

Jo Ann Prentice, who started the day tied for the lead skied to a 77 and finished tied for fifth. Kathy Whitworth, who started one stroke back, could do no better than 75 and a tie for third.

Only Chako Higuchi, one of four Japanese players on the tour, made a move at Mrs. Rankin, shooting a 70 to finish two strokes behind at 219 and win $3,400.

Gale Denenberg also had a 70 and tied for 22nd with Miss Whitworth at 231, winning $2,365.

Mrs. Rankin, who said she has made a key adjustment in her game that she would not describe because "you'd laugh" hit only two bad shots, by her account, in the final round.

Crampton Captures Tourney

HOUSTON (UPI) — Australian Bruce Crampton fired an even-par 72 Sunday to win the $205,000 Houston Open by one stroke and pass Jack Nicklaus to become the leading money winner on the tour this year.

Crampton, winning his third tournament of 1972, finished with an 11-under 277 on rounds of 72-66-67-72 over the par 36-36-72 6,905-yard Quail Valley Golf Club course.

Dave Stockton shot a 67 on the final round to move into second place at 278.

Lanny Wadkins, trying for his second straight tour title, shot an even-par 72 to slip from second to third position at 281. Wadkins, the tour's No. 4 money winner, birdied two holes on the front nine to stay within three strokes of Crampton, but he bogeyed Nos. 11 and 14 to drop out of contention.

Crampton appeared to have a one-sided victory assured with two holes to go, but he bogeyed the 17th hole while Stockton birdied both No. 17 and No. 18 to reduce a four-shot deficit to one stroke at the end.

The $41,000 Crampton won pushed his money winnings to $153,582, which PGA officials said they thought was a record for this point on the tour.

Stockton made the tournament close by making a 20-foot putt on the 17th hole and knocking his approach shot on the final hole to within 2 1/2 feet of the cup.

Crampton, who has now finished in the top 10 eight times this year, passed Nicklaus, who was the leading money winner with $146,064, and Lee Trevino, who had $125,881.

Neither Nicklaus nor Trevino were entered in Houston, although Trevino will rejoin the tour next week in Fort Worth after recovering from a shoulder muscle pull.

Crampton, a 17-year veteran of the tour, also moved into fifth place in career earnings with $945,121, passing Gary Player who has $935,529. He trails only Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and Trevino.

Bob Goalby broke the course record Sunday with a 65, lowering the mark of 66 which Crampton had established in the second round of the tournament.

OU Sweeps Huskers To Capture Big 8 Lead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners, who started the weekend 1 1/2 games off the pace, were out front Sunday in the Big Eight Conference baseball scramble.

The Sooners 14-4, got there Saturday when they put the final touches to a three-game sweep of Nebraska 5-4 while Oklahoma State 13-4 the leader before Saturday's action lost a 5-4 decision to Missouri.

Other Saturday games saw Colorado beat Kansas 4-0 and Kansas State divide a nonconference twin bill with Tulsa losing 5-4 and winning 8-4 Iowa State's doubleheader with Creighton was rained out.

The Sooners trailed 4-2 going into the ninth and poured three runs across on four walks. Bill Severns' single, Mike Umfleet's run-scoring double and Keith Drumright's single.

An eighth-inning rally by Missouri beat Oklahoma State. The Tigers broke out for four runs in that frame. Tom Ellis and Charles Young homered for Missouri and Chuck Meyers for the Cowboys.

Colorado's triumph over Kansas kept the Buffs' hopes aroused that they can gain a share of the crown. John Stearns, the Buffs' star catcher, got two hits and batted in a run, and Bob Vigil pitched the shutout. Colorado is 11-7, three games behind Oklahoma.

Steve Anson's home run for Kansas State in the opener was the bright spot for the Wildcats. State's Scott Scholbe drove in live runs in the nightcap with a home run, double and a single.

This week's schedule:
Monday—Colorado vs. Colorado College and Wyoming at Colorado.
Wednesday—Denver University at Colorado 2.
Thursday—Metro State of Denver at Colorado.
Friday—Iowa State at Colorado 2.
Saturday—Iowa State at Colorado, Kansas at Kansas State, 2, Friends at Nebraska 2.
Sunday—Kansas at Kansas State.

WHA Title To Whalers
BOSTON (UPI) — Teddy Green held aloft the World Cup but Howard Baldwin was looking for the Stanley Cup.

That was the initial response of the New England Whalers Sunday afternoon after they drubbed the Winnipeg Jets 9-6, to win the World Hockey Association's first Avco World Cup Trophy.

Green, the team captain, tried to start a WHA tradition by skating around the ice with the cup held overhead—similar to what the National Hockey League champion does with the Stanley Cup.

His progress, however, was slowed by a sea of admiring youngsters that surrounded him tugging at him and trying to shake his hand. Finally he gave up and headed toward the Whalers' dressing room.

At the same time Baldwin, the team president, was challenging the NHL to a one game duel on neutral ice for the Stanley Cup—a trophy he said that was kidnapped by the NHL in 1910.

The world champion New England Whalers challenge the winner of the Chicago-Montreal series to a playoff for the (Stanley) Cup and return it to the rightful position for which it was originally intended, Baldwin said.

He said the Stanley Cup was originally designed as a championship cup for all of hockey.

If they would play us in a one game shot it would be a great privilege, New England coach Jack Kelly agreed.

I'm not kidding myself, Kelly said. I know where the talent lies. But somewhere along the line they have to challenge us.

The Whalers used a three-goal hat trick from Larry Pleau and two goals and two assists from Tom Webster for their series clinching win over Winnipeg Sunday.

Chet Wilson's team of the Lincoln American Legion Bowling League finished in third place in the regional tournament at Atchison Kan.

The Lincolnites rolled a team score of 3,245. The Wilson bowlers' individual scores were: Garid Bower 577, Hoarce Gomon 570, Don Gison 547, Harold Brisse 500, Bob Wolfe 448.

Harmon Hurt In Scrimmage Ellis Defeats Brooks

Los Angeles (UPI) — Mark Harmon, the son of former Michigan all-America Tom Harmon, suffered a broken collarbone Saturday during a two-hour UCLA football scrimmage, the next to last of the spring season.

Harmon, the Bruins' starting quarterback last year, is expected to be able to play in the fall.

The 6-0, 185-pound senior led UCLA in total offense last year.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jimmy Ellis bloodied Reco Brooks' face with a snappy left jab and then knocked him out after 48 seconds of the fifth round of a 10-round heavyweight fight Saturday night.

Ellis, former World Boxing Association champion now ranked fourth, moved in at the bell of the fifth with a flurry of combinations that sent Brooks reeling. A solid left dropped Brooks for the count.

Ellis, who had knocked out Brooks in the second round of a previous meeting in Miami, said "I just couldn't catch him. This time it took time for me to figure him out. He threw a lot more punches early this time around."

Salvation Army Citadel Is Dedicated; 500 Attend

There was standing room only in Lincoln's new Salvation Army Citadel as approximately 500 members and interested citizens listened to the Army's Chicago Staff Band and various speakers during dedication ceremonies Sunday.

Hastings Firm Wins Contract For Center

A contract has been awarded to Hastings Construction Co. of Hastings to build a shopping center on the northeast corner of 48th and Van Don here.

Construction will begin in 30 days, with completion slated for the spring of 1974.

Plans call for a 26,500 square foot Hinky Dinky supermarket, a 12,000 square foot Walgreen Drugstore, a 6,000 square foot Knights Family Clothing Store, as well as 30,000 square feet to be leased to other tenants.

Larry Price, owner of the property, said in making the announcement that this completes the first stage of development.

A 10,000 square foot office building at the site was completed and leased in January, and The Pantry restaurant will open sometime next month, he said.

Larry Price, owner of the property, said in making the announcement that this completes the first stage of development.

J. Clyde Cox, a former Lincoln resident and current Salvation Army territorial commissioner, said the dedication ceremonies represented not only the new chapel but a complex of Salvation Army buildings erected to serve the Lincoln community.

"I have never dedicated a building that has been built with the thought of community in mind more than this particular building," Cox said.

He added that the building, like all other Salvation Army efforts, was built on three factors: purpose, program and presence.

He said the building's purpose was to make life better for those who walked through its doors, its program was to meet the needs of the people, and its presence was a vehicle to be used by God for the benefit of his own creation.

Mrs. J. Clyde Clark read the dedicatory prayer, Dr. C. Ebb Menden, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, read the opening prayer, and Marvin Dienst, advisory board member, read the scriptural reading, E. S. Wescott, chairman of the advisory board, presided over the dedication and prayer service.

The new building, an addition to a recreation center at 2625 Potter, replaces the old Citadel at 11th and Q.

The addition was made possible when more than $300,000 was pledged by Lincoln citizens during the capital fund drive. Other money came from the sale of Army-owned residences and the old Citadel property.

The presidency is a back-breaking job, and the officeholder needs all the guidance he can get. The institution should be modernized and simplified. And with the American tradition of rotation in office, it's essential that the office be within the capabilities of qualified ordinary persons — not supermen.

Depends On Free Press
If outsiders had free access to President Nixon, he wouldn't have taken so long to get down to brass tacks in respect to the unsavory Watergate incident. Nixon and his associates, in calling attention to details of news media, should never allow personal or political motives to hide from the American people that the durable success of a Republic depends on an untroubled press.

Since officeholders are in effect trustees of the people's assets, there's no excuse for cover-up or protection of associates who stoop to conquer. Any attempt to do so is a betrayal of a public trust. If a chief is kept from being abreast by his own assistants, his staff — to say the least — needs to be reorganized.

There are many facets to the Watergate incident, but one important aspect bears on productive management methods.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self-addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
